ARMY WILL BE ENLARGED INDEFINITELY

CUBAN GOVERNMENT PREPARES FOR A BITTER SIEGE. SITUATION SERIOUS.

GROWTH OF INSURRECTION KEEPS PACE WITH PREPARATIONS FOR SUFFOCATING IT.

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—The anxiety of President Palma to extend every possible opportunity for peace without bloodshed, and his desire to permit those who joined the insurrection under misguidance to repent and return to their homes unmolested, combined with the general wish to end a situation fraught with so much loss and suffering, has led to consideration by the president and his cabinet of a project decreeing a thirty-day amnesty period, during which the insurrectionists are invited to lay down their arms and return to their peaceful pursuits. It was proposed to issue the decree tomorrow, but persons close to the president strongly opposed the measure and it may be relinquished.

So far as actual conflict went, Sunday proved to be a day of inactivity, but preparations proceeded without abatement.

A fund of $2,000,000 has been set aside by the treasury for defense and drafts on it are heavy and constant.

The situation is so increasingly serious that it is tacitly admitted in all government circles that the enlargement of the army will not stop at any given number, but will continue indefinitely.

While the number of men at present leaving their regular occupations to enlist for war is small, employers are beginning to find that they soon will be confronted with a considerable scarcity of labor. Many laborers are gathered in front of the bulletin boards on which is displayed the call for volunteers issued by President Palma Saturday. They discuss the attractiveness of a soldier's life at such unusual pay and, as a result, may resolve to enlist.

It was learned today that several new insurgent bands had taken to the brush. The growth of the insurrection certainly seems to keep pace with the preparation for suffocating it. Next to the progress of the combatants, the most interesting question today was to be how to end the war without fighting. Around the discussion of the question [illegible] a great [illegible] of [illegible]ination and recrimination from both Liberals and Moderates, each side bringing accusations against the other as to the responsibility for precipitating the [illegible]. In one phase of the controversy the Liberals [illegible] so united as to suggest an understanding among them for taking advantage of the present situation to press upon the government a proposition that it ought in some manner to treat with them, or at least admit them to a conference of some sort. While no Liberals are in arms against the government, they admit countenancing the insurrection, though they always deny knowledge of any such conspiracy. Statements given out by Liberals all point to the probability that the matter might be settled on the basis of the admission of the leaders of their party to the councils of the government and some guarantee that in the future elections will be conducted with absolute fairness.

The insurrectionists in the field who, of course, are far more radical in their demands, and who are important factors in this discussion, do not think of accepting less than the complete annulment of the last election. The government, however, will not admit any such propositions.

All discussion of this sort leads to the subject of American intervention. If the conflict should last for a long time, intervention is considered to loom as a considerably certain eventuality. If the government subdues the insurrection and chastises, wounds or kills members of the Liberal party, the feeling of rancor is expected to occur for years. If the insurrectionists prevail, it is predicted that uncertain conditions are bound to continue.

Some villages have become wholly insurrectionist, and even large towns in some cases have taken up arms against the government. The attitude of the people is entirely a question of the attitude of the leaders. A former mayor of Trinidad has suddenly placed himself at the head of a band of 100 insurgents. The mayor of Las Cruces is leading a band from his town, consisting of 200 men.

A band of young women living in Havana have offered their services as nurses, and General Rodriguez, commander of the rural guards, has replied that he will be glad to avail himself of their offer if it should be necessary.

QUITS BUSINESS IN CALIFORNIA

GERMAN INSURANCE COMPANY SURRENDERS LICENSE AND DELIVERS ULTIMATUM AS TO PAYING CLAIMS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The Rhine and Moselle Fire Insurance company has surrendered its license to do business in California and announced its withdrawal from business in the state. In a letter to Insurance Commissioner Wolf, the company's attorney says:

"In relation to the claims of policy holders who suffered losses in the conflagration following upon the earthquake, the company authorizes the statement that as to any policy holder having no other insurance other than in the company, and whose loss does not exceed $500, they will allow 50 per cent of the claim, but that as to all other claims they will refuse payment. In relation to suits which are to be anticipated as the result of its action, the company cables that they are advised by German counsel that judgments of state courts will not be recognized in Germany, and that it will be unnecessary to appear in any suit brought in these tribunals. As to suits which may be filed in the United States circuit court, other considerations prevail, and we are authorized as to such suits to appear for and on behalf of the company."

FORAKER ON "CORDIALITY"

[illegible] HIS ACTION IN OPPOSING "PRESIDENT [illegible]—HAS NOT MUCH TO SAY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. Senator Foraker, today in an interview, discussed the political situation in Ohio, devoting considerable attention to the probable action of the approaching Republican convention in that state with respect to those of the congressional delegation who had differed from the president in some matter of legislation. He said:

"I am sorry to [illegible] that the Republicans of Ohio are [illegible] sharp controversies, but the subject of difference does not seem to very important. I cannot think, therefore, that there is likely to be any serious injury done to the party whatever may happen to individuals.

"So far as indorsing me is concerned, that is not important to anybody except myself and I shall try to accept with equanimity whatever may be the action of the convention.

"It is true I opposed the president policy as embodied in the Hepburn bill, but not as is commonly stated in the newspapers, because I was opposed to governmental regulation and supervision of railroads. The record will show that I have done as much in that behalf as any other Ohio man in congress, but because I thought the Hepburn bill unwise, unjust and unconstitutional.

"My contention was that under existing law, which I helped enact, having been a member of the subcommittee that framed it, especially if amended as it should be, every serious wrong of every kind practiced by the railroads can be remedied, and that evil practices can be broken up as nearly as any law will enable to break them up.

"Existing laws have been found, according to the judgments rendered in these proceedings, to apply to every kind of rebate or discrimination between individuals or localities, no matter under what name, form or guise practiced that anybody has yet complained about.

"This is a great subject, full of troublesome questions, both of law and of policy, that cannot be properly discussed in an interview.

"As to myself, I shall not make any request of the convention nor any complaint as to its action whatever

SECRETARY ROOT NOW IN CHILE

THE EARTHQUAKE INTERFERES WITH RECEPTION PLANS TO VISIT SEVERAL COAST POINTS.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 26.—The United States cruiser Charleston, with Secretary of State Root on board, which left Bahia Blanca, Argentina, August 20, reached Punta Arenas, the first port in Chile, August 23, where it was met by a Chilean cruiser. Mr. Root was entertained by the local authorities and the American consul gave a dinner in his honor. The Charleston is due at Lota, Chile, 300 miles south of Valparaiso, August 29. Mr. Root will visit Lota, Talcahuano and Concepcion with the minister of foreign affairs and Mr. Hicks. From Concepcion he will come to Santiago by rail.

The original intention was to meet the American secretary of state at Lota with the Chilean cruiser O'Higgins and proceed to Valparaiso, but the earthquake prevented the carrying out of this plan. The Charleston will proceed from Lota to Valparaiso and on September 3, Mr. Root will rejoin the American cruiser and continue his voyage up the coast, stopping in the nitrate region for one day and thence proceeding for Callao, Peru.

PLOT ON LIFE OF COUNT VORONTZEFF-DASHKOFF, VICEROY OF THE CENSUS, DISCOVERED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 26.—The daughter of Premier Stolypin, who was injured by the bomb explosion in the premier's summer home Saturday and who was erroneously reported to have died, is still alive and passed a quiet night under the effects of an opiate. The premier's son, who also was hurt, is better today.

The telegram sent by Emperor Nicholas to M. Stolypin, after the explosion, was as follows:

"I cannot find words to express my indignation. I hope with all my heart that the health of your son and daughter will soon be restored, and likewise that of the other persons injured."

The dowager empress this morning made inquiry as to the condition of the premier's children.

Two more persons injured by the explosion died during the night, bringing the total number of dead to 32. Twenty-six persons were instantly killed.

The central committee of the local revolutionists has drawn up a proclamation, which declares that unless the government forthwith alters its policy, such acts as the attempt on the life of the premier will be pursued to the utmost, and government representatives will be killed by hundreds.

Private advices received here from Tiflis are to the effect that a plot on the life of Count Vorontzeff-Dashoff, viceroy of the Caucasus, has been discovered and that many arrests have been made, including several officers.

M. Moukhanoff, a member of the late parliament who at the time of the explosion was waiting to see Premier Stolypin concerning permission to hold a congress of the Constitutional Democratic party, says:

"I was sitting with some twenty other visitors including several ladies at a table in the [illegible] room. M. Stolypin then being engaged with M. Potiyanoff, a marshal of the nobility of the province of Simbirsk and the president of the Simbirsk zemstvo deputation. After waiting for some time, I changed my seat and joined M. [illegible], a chamberlain of the court, in a bay [illegible] [illegible] up to the house.

"A few seconds after the carriage bearing the [illegible] arrived, which attracted my attention because visitors usually come in smaller carriages, I was suddenly hurled backward against the wall which my head struck. I was so stunned that I did not even hear the explosion. When I recovered consciousness I saw that the ceiling and one of the walls were gone and that the room was heaped with debris from the floor above.

"The first words I heard came from the lips of a mother superior who was standing amid the ruins in a corner of the room praying before an ikon 'save us,' at the same time crossing herself. She was one of the six who escaped uninjured.

"The occupant of the chair I had formerly occupied was killed on the spot.

"I then went into the garden, where I came face to face with M. Stolypin. He had complete mastery over himself and was perfectly calm. I urged him not to go back into the house, saying that there might be another bomb there but he insisted on returning, saying there might be wounded persons in there. The premier's face was bespattered with ink, thrown there by the force of the explosion."

M. Stolypin is greatly grieved at the death of the old hall porter, who had served the ministry of the interior for forty years.

In the evening, Mme. Stolypin went to St. Petersburg aboard a small government boat.

It appears that the assassins were well supplied with funds. They paid $125 in advance for the rooms they engaged. Before leaving them they disguised themselves and made the house porter drunk.

The extraordinary power of the explosion may be judged by the fact that the houses on the opposite side of the

PULAJANES BREAK UP INTO SMALL BODIES

MANILA, Aug. 26.—It is officially reported that the main band of the Pulajanes has broken into smaller bodies. A general movement of 1,000 troops and 300 constabulary through all parts of the disaffected region is planned. A part of the province of Leyte, south of Buyog bay, has been cleared of the Pulajanes. There is no disaffection on the west coast except a few bands which have escaped the soldiers. On the east coast native volunteers are bringing in prisoners.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE ACCIDENTALLY FALLEN BEFORE ENTRANCE WAS REACHED. WILD STAMPEDE.

ODESSA, Aug. 26.—Late Saturday evening, a girl dropped a bomb in the Nicholas boulevard, fifty paces from the palace of Governor Kaulbars. There was a deafening detonation and a wild stampede of the promenaders. No one was injured except the girl who dropped the bomb. Her hand was shattered.

It is supposed the bomb accidentally fell from her hand before she had reached the entrance to the palace. She and another girl, and a university student who was accompanying them, were arrested.

'FRISCO STREET CAR MEN STRIKE

TRAFFIC SUSPENDED BECAUSE COMPANY FAILED TO MEET DEMANDS—AUTOMOBILES USED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—With the exception of California and Geary street lines, street railway traffic in this city was suspended today as the result of the strike of the conductors and motormen of the United Railroad system, which went into effect at 5 o'clock this morning. The United Railroads made no attempt to run cars, and consequently there was no disorder.

Further action in the tieup awaits the arrival of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, who is en route from the [illegible], and who is expected to arrive [illegible].

Automobiles, carriages and other vehicles have been [illegible] into requisition and they did a good [illegible]. Although the California and Geary lines were in operation, their limited equipment was inadequate. The employes of these two lines will not be called out, but they expect their employers to follow the [illegible] of the larger company in any change that may be [illegible] in the wage schedule.

The action of the union was taken at 2 o'clock this morning at a meeting of the [illegible] to enforce the demands of $3 a day, for eight hours, [illegible] the company [illegible] Sunday.

The action of the car [illegible] was taken [illegible] the past two days, to await [illegible] strike. In reply to the demands [illegible] to the company last Sunday, Chairman Mullaly answered that he was powerless to act in the absence of President Calhoun, requesting the union to wait the latter's arrival, when a directors' meeting would be called and a definite reply be given the men.

Several communications [illegible] between the company and the carmen resulting in an ultimatum from the latter, Tuesday, that the company must make definite reply not later than Friday afternoon. Mr. Mullaly [illegible] a letter to the union Friday, again asking the union to postpone action until the arrival of President Calhoun, who would be in the city today.

The carmen, however, apparently thought that the United Railroads was only sparring for time, and reports were circulated that the company was constructing barracks which the carmen believed were intended for strike breakers.

Late tonight a riot [illegible] at Fillmore and Turk street, which, however, had no direct connection with the strike of the carmen. Four [illegible] said to have been striking linemen, were discussing the strike and in the course of their remarks called a [illegible] named Harrison a "scab." Harrison was one of the hoist engineers and resented the epithet, and a fist fight ensued in which Harrison had his nose broken and was otherwise badly beaten.

From early this morning until late tonight Market street presented an animated scene. Owners of every kind of vehicle from automobiles to rickety express wagons were quick to take advantage of the situation and did a thriving business.

This richest of all American stakes, with a purse of more than $30,000, will probably attract one of the largest fields in the history of the event. It is expected that more than twenty of the best two-year-olds of the season will be under colors. None of the young racers eligible for the stake stands out above the others, and this open appearance of the race, together with the big field, promises a contest of unusual interest. The winner will be pronounced the champion of the year, in the two-year-old division.

Mrs. Hughes expired as she was being placed on the operating table of a hospital to which she had been taken. Those who saw the shooting immediately declared that Hughes was the man who did it and a search for him was made. He was found at the home of his father, submitted to arrest quietly, and declared he knew nothing about the crime.

PLAN TO EXTEND NORTHERN PACIFIC

ROAD MAY PENETRATE CALIFORNIA TO SACRAMENTO, THROUGH EFFORTS OF JAMES J. HILL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The Call prints a story today to the effect that James J. Hill, the railway magnate, is planning to extend the Northern Pacific into California. The article states that a party of twenty surveyors which came west from Chicago the last week in July, was in the employ of Hill. The surveyors came as far as Winnemucca, Nev., where they left the Southern Pacific and started northward on an overland journey. Up near the southern boundary of Idaho these men met another party that had come south from Grantsdale, the end of a small extension of the Northern Pacific on the other side of the Rocky mountains.

The two parties then proceeded across the upper portion of Nevada and crossed over into California along the route of the Western Pacific. Traveling down the east side of Lassen peak, the surveyors made a number of reconnoiters, and finally striking the line of the Western Pacific again, they proceeded southward to the vicinity of Sacramento, where they ceased work.

It is further stated that a route is being surveyed through the timber lands in the northwestern part of California, which have been acquired by T. B. Walker and other big lumbermen.

GENERAL MIN MURDERED BY A YOUNG GIRL

DEATH SENTENCE HAD LONG HUNG OVER GENERAL BECAUSE OF ALLEGED HARSH METHODS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 26. Saturday's unsuccessful attempt on the life of Premier Stolypin, with its sickening, useless slaughter of thirty-two persons, was followed tonight by another revolutionary outrage, in which General Min, commander of the Seminovsky guard regiment, and who since his promotion to be a general has been attached as a personal adjutant to the suite of the emperor, was killed on the station platform at Peterhof by a young woman, who fired five shots into his body from an automatic revolver, and then, without resistance submitted to arrest.

The capture of the girl was effected by General Min's wife, who held her until the arrival of an officer.

This was the third successive attempt on the life of General Min, who was condemned to death by the terrorists immediately after the Moscow revolt last December on account of stern repression practiced by a battalion under his command, and especially for the wholesale execution of persons condemned by drumhead court martial for being caught with arms in their possession.

General Min was returning from his summer residence at Peterhof and had just greeted his wife and daughter on the platform, when a young woman, almost a girl, approached from behind and fired two shots into his back and then three more into his body as it sank to the ground. [illegible] prevented by Mme. Min [illegible] herself upon the [illegible] the hand which held [illegible] was [illegible] attempt to [illegible] the caution [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that it [illegible]

To the police, the [illegible] that she had done the [illegible] had executed the [illegible] of the [illegible] organization of [illegible] [illegible] to give her name.

By a remarkable coincidence, General Min only last week, after the [illegible] of the maneuvers at Krasnoye Selo, dismissed the body guard which had accompanied him since the first attempt was made on his life, saying that the ordinary police of Peterhof would be sufficient to guard him and his villa at Peterhof.

During the Moscow revolt, Min, who was then a colonel, commanded the first battalion of the Seminovsky guard, which operated within the city itself. The second battalion of the guard, under command of Colonel Riman, conducted repressions along the railroad at Kazan, for which acts Riman also was condemned to death. Undeterred by several attempts to execute this sentence, Riman accepted an appointment on the staff of General Skalon, governor of Warsaw, after the bomb outrage at Warsaw, and left two days ago to assist in the suppression of anarchy in Poland.

The death sentence had long hung over the head of General Min, owing to the disfavor into which he had fallen because of alleged harsh methods and cruelty. It was General Min who commanded the Seminovsky regiment when the people were shot down near the technological institute in St. Petersburg, on October 31 and who, it was said, wanted to get the buildings of the institute on fire and roast the students inside. Min was sent by the emperor to suppress the disorders at Saratof, after the assassination of Lieutenant General Sakaroff in December last, and when the trouble at the place was quelled, was dispatched at the end of December to Moscow to assist in putting down the uprising there.

On April 24, a member of the fighting organization of the revolutionists, disguised as an officer, who had called at Min's residence several times and requested to see him, excited the suspicion of the attaches of the household and was arrested. It developed that he was a revolutionist and was armed with a revolver and dagger. On July 15 last it was reported that some of the soldiers of the Seminovsky guard at Krasnoye-Selo had served notice on General Min that they intended to kill him at the first opportunity for forcing them to murder their fellow citizens in the Moscow revolt, and that Min, in fear of his life, had fled the camp.

NEW FREIGHT TARIFF REGARDED RUINOUS

SAN JUAN, P. R., Aug. 26.—The Porto Rico Fruit Growers association has appealed to the executive committee against the proposed new freight tariff of the American Railroad company, which will become effective in November. The association claims that an increase of from 200 to 300 per cent over the present rate would be ruinous to the development of the fruit industry. The railroad traverses thousands of acres of pineapple and orange lands, from which the first shipments were made this year. Under the terms of the company's franchise, the power to fix rates is vested in the executive council.

DAUGHTER OF STOLYPIN IS STILL ALIVE

A painful feature of the tragedy was the delay in securing medical aid for the injured, over an hour elapsing before ambulances arrived.

It was fully half an hour before ... system ... during which the ... suffered agonies. At dusk ... were lighted ... by the fitful light from these the work was continued and the walls were shored up with strong beams.

Many trees in the avenue were blown down by the force of the explosion and the aspect of the house and grounds was one of complete desolation. Parts of human bodies were thrown a great distance. An officer chanced to knock against a small tree and a bloody, dust covered hand that had lodged among the branches fell at his feet.

Inquiry at the Calmyer Hospital today elicited the statement that Premier Stolypin's daughter was still alive, but that her condition was critical and it was feared that gangrene would set in. She is under the care of the famous surgeon Dr. Pavloff.

Mlle Stolypin is one of seven daughters of the premier. The wounded boy is his only son. Mme. Stolypin who was driving at the time of the explosion is constantly at the bedside of her daughter.

M Stolypin removed last night to his town residence in Morskaia street which is almost next door to the house where the assassins had their lodgings. The premier frequently visits the latter house, which is the property of Princess Mestcherskv, and is devoted to furnished rooms of the highest class.

The Associated Press representative revisited the wrecked villa today and found firemen tearing away the shattered walls. An imposing force of police kept all comers even high officers at a distance from the villa.

At the hospital of St. Peter and St. Paul there was a disgraceful scramble of thousands of curiosity seekers around the mangled remains of 26 of the victims of the explosion, which had lain exposed on the grass in the hospital yard the whole of last night and today, and which were still there at 5 o'clock this evening. Society women fought and jostled street laborers and peasant women for a chance to view the sight. Many of them were accompanied by children of tender years.

Though dozens of suspected revolutionists were gathered in today, no important arrests have been chronicled. The police have been unsuccessful in getting on the real track of the conspiracy beyond establishing from the text of the death sentence found on the body of one of the dead assassins that the band belonged to the Maximists better known as the "flying group" of the social revolutionists. This group is thus designated because it operates on an unfixed base. It has been responsible for most of the recent assassinations not having accepted the dictum of the largest "fighting organization" of the social revolutionists to discontinue activity during the session of parliament. Among its members, who do not exceed a few hundreds, were Mlle Spirodovna, who shot at Chief of Police Luzehnoffsky at Tambov, Mlle Barbara Prvntz, who committed suicide after the premature explosion of a bomb intended for Governor General Kaulbars, the slayer of General Kozlov of the headquarters staff who was murdered in the park at Peterhof July 14, and Belzensoff, the principal of the great Moscow bank robbery. The group is financed largely with the proceeds of the Credit Mutual bank robbery. A peculiarity of its workings is that its decrees are never executed by residents of the same city in which the victim lives, but by persons drafted from other localities, which diminishes the chance of police detection.

Talk of military dictatorship is again in the air. According to a report current, a meeting of the camarilla discussed the question tonight at Peterhof, and a majority was in favor of such a step. Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievich who had just called on Premier Stolypin was especially in favor of the plan. After the meeting Grand Duke Nicholas and others of the grand duk... went to the emperor ... and his authorization, but up to the present moment this has not been received.

M. Pollanvoff, who was talking to M. Stolypin at the time of the explosion, gives the following account of the disaster:

"After discussing the matter of zemstvo finances and indulging in a little talk on the general political condition in the province of Simbirsk I had risen to depart. The minister was extending his hand to me when the explosion occurred. It seemed as though there were two or three shocks in succession. I felt myself lifted in the air and then hurled violently to the floor. I did not lose consciousness. After a moment I regained my feet and made my way out through a window into the garden, the doors of the study being blocked by broken furniture and other debris. The minister's first words were: 'Where is my family? What has happened?' I answered that it was probably due to a bomb being thrown from the garden. We then went to the front of the house and as soon as possible I hailed a coachman and departed. Of those in the reception room, antechamber all were killed or wounded. I and my colleagues who were with M. Stolypin alone escaped."

The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent, commenting on the outrage, says:

"No political reform can heal the moral gangrene which is eating away the soul of the nation. ... tives can have no part in the ... The ideas of right and wrong are ... is perverted. Bestiality and ... struggling for the upper hand ... hances ... be ... est ... the ... were in power ... would continue for the ... between this party or that but between ... and law and order."

LONDON, Aug 27.—Dispatches from St. Petersburg to the newspapers this morning supply some further details concerning the attempt on the life of the Russian premier, M Stolypin.

It is stated that the man who threw or dropped the bomb was named Mordsoff and that he was a native of Ryazan province. Among the killed were nearly all the agents of the secret police in the house, including four women detectives. Several persons were ... that an attempt on the life of the premier would be made. Mme. Davidoff, wife of the court chamberlain, who was killed, ... that her husband received a post card Friday saying:

"Do not go where you intended going."

Another official named Pisensky received a similar warning. He feigned illness and thus escaped.

Some of the accounts suggest that the explosion was premature and that therefore the escape of the premier was due to the fact that the assassins were partly intoxicated.

An interesting story is told of M. Stolypin. When he was governor of Saratov the superintendent of police there was being attacked by a mob for carrying out orders that aroused their resentment. Stolypin seeing what was happening rushed up between the superintendent and the angry crowd exclaiming: "If you want to kill the responsible official it is I. The superintendent is doing his duty by executing my orders. He had no choice but to carry them out. It was I alone who issued them, and here I am."

PAPERS DEPLORE BOMB OUTRAGE

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Most of the newspapers today deplore and criticise in the severest terms the bomb outrage at the residence of the Russian premier, M Stolypin, Saturday and agree that it will act only as a setback to the cause of reform. The socialist organs however, seek to palliate the offense by contending that the government had exasperated the revolutionists by bad faith trickery and brutal acts. The Temps in an editorial says:

"The universal reprobation which these political crimes arouses is increased by the fact that Premier Stolypin cannot be called either an uncompromising reactionary or a bloodthirsty bureaucrat. We always considered that it was with remarkable good faith that he devoted himself to what he believed was for the good of Russia although he may have been mistaken in the means he chose. It is to be feared that a military dictatorship pure and simple will follow Stolypin's timid liberalism but if that statesman wishes a fine lesson from the ... put before him let him work out as quickly as possible a system of constitutional legality, thus replying by a noble gesture to the odious act of which he is the victim and spare the country further of these reprehensible deeds and useless cruelties."

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 26.—A touring automobile containing seven persons was run down by a suburban trolley car at Lakewood today and the chauffeur Oliver Labelle, of New Bedford, was instantly killed, Aimee Frazeau, of Fall River, owner of the machine was fatally injured, and George J. Pauquette was seriously hurt. The other occupants of the touring car, members of Mr. Frazeau's family, escaped injury, though the machine was wrecked.

The trolley car going at a rapid rate struck the automobile squarely in the middle, throwing it sixty feet down the track.

EXPLOSIVES FOUND.

HAMBURG, Aug 26.—A search of the room occupied by a young Russian who was arrested here today disclosed quantities of explosives, a number of revolvers and bills of lading for shipments of ammunition and explosives to Russian Baltic ports.

BANK FAILURE DRIVES MAN TO SEEK DEATH

CHICAGO, Aug 26.—Johann Kindler aged 18, today became violent and alarmed passengers in an Ashland avenue car, while brooding over the loss of $50 which he had deposited in the failed Milwaukee Avenue State bank. Kindler is the second person to become mentally deranged as a result of the failure. In addition, three persons have committed suicide and one man fell dead following the flight of President Stensland and the closing of the bank. The police tonight are still in the dark as to the whereabouts of Stensland.

TWO RECORDS SMASHED

NEW YORK, Aug 26.—Martin J. Sheridan of the Irish-American Athletic club whose last discus record was not allowed today threw the discus 134 feet 4 inches at the Irish Carnival in Celtic park. This eclipses the mark of 133 feet 11 inches made by Sheridan last year in the Canadian championship and will constitute a new world's record.

Another world's record was set by John J. Flanagan of the Irish-American A. C. He was entered in the 56-pound weight throwing and using the unlimited run and follow, succeeded in sending the big iron ball 43 feet and 5 inches. The old record was a foot short of that mark.

Aug 26.—The past 24 hours have been quiet except for shooting last night at imaginary objects by men on outpost duty. As a result two ... asleep in a farm house were shot, one dying and the other is unconscious.

The insurgent forces under Pino Guerrera spent last night and today at Galafre near here. No movement has yet been made by either side to attack. Ex Governor Perez, a Liberal, visited Guerrera today and found him to be well informed as to what was going on. Guerrera has ... well armed men. Captain Pujalos with his artillery constitutes the main strength of the government column here. The regular rural guardsmen are reliable and good fighters but the recruits do not inspire confidence.

While the correspondent of the Associated Press was riding in toward the station last night he was fired on by half a dozen recruits without previous challenge.

HAVANA, Aug 26.—The Associated Press learns that there are grave differences between President Palma and Vice President Mendez Capote. The latter is suspected of having considered, with Senator Alfredo Zayas, president of the Liberal party, the question of whether peace could not be restored by Palma's withdrawal from the presidency by permitting Capote to succeed him, and by giving certain posts to the Liberals. None of the parties concerned were willing to discuss this matter tonight but the source of the correspondent's information is entirely reliable.

Major Gomez of the government reports another engagement with insurgents near Cascabal today, in which several men were killed or wounded. Details of this affair have not yet been received here.

Acting Secretary of the Interior Montalvo has recommended the establishment of a censorship and it is feared that such a restriction shortly will be imposed.

A train from Havana bearing 150 recruits and forty rural guards reached Pinar Del Rio today and reinforced the government troops already here.

The presence of small parties of insurrectionists is reported daily in the four western provinces, principally in Havana and Santa Clara.

A band of 100 insurgents entered Las Lajas, Santa Clara province today and got away with the contents of the local treasury, $8,000, and all the horses in town.

A special edition of the Official Gazette issued tonight announces the seizure of all horses needed by the government forces. Proper payment will be made for all animals thus taken. The shortage of horses is at present one of the worst drawbacks with which the government has to contend.

The government announced today the capture of ex-Congressman Carlos Mendieta, the leader of the insurgents in Santa Clara province. He had $8,000 on his person when caught. Colonel Aranda, who was with Mendieta, also was taken prisoner. The capture of Mendieta is of great importance.

PRESIDENT OF DEFUNCT BANK PASSES AWAY

MYSTERY OF THE DEEP SEA.

Swedish Scientists Investigate the Phenomena of "Dead Water."

From the Chicago Chronicle.

One of the most curious marine phenomena known to seamen is that called by Norwegian sailors "dead water," which without any visible cause makes a vessel lose her speed and refuse to answer her helm. The sailor's only definite knowledge of its origin says the Scotsman, is that it exists solely where there is a surface layer of fresh water resting upon the salt water of the sea. Several explanations have been advanced by the captains of the ships of the effect of dead water, the commonest of which is that the two water layers move in different directions. The true explanation however was recently found by Swedish investigators. At least so it would seem from what follows.

The experiment carried out was an exceedingly pretty one. A large plate glass tank was first mounted on a wooden frame. The tank was then filled to a certain depth with salt water and a layer of fresh water was carefully poured on to the surface so that two separate water layers were obtained. The salt water was blackened with liquid Chinese ink before the water layers were prepared and in this way the different layers were made clearly visible. A boat model was then towed along the tank and a silhouette of the waves produced was obtained by placing a white screen at a short distance behind the tank. The waves were also photographed by flashlight and the results showed conclusively that waves actually were set up at the boundary line between the two liquids.

Further experiments were made to verify the sudden loss of ... due to dead water. The boat model was drawn across the tank and the towing string suddenly slackened when the boat was about half way across. In cases where the tank contained salt water only the boat stopped gradually, moving some ... the ... string ... had been slackened. When the tank contained a layer of fresh water ... on salt water ... the ... and moved ... distance. The experiments ... on a small scale ... that the difficulties ... first within ... resistance experienced by the vessel in generating invisible waves at the fresh water-salt water boundary, although in some particular cases the influence of undercurrents must also doubtless be taken into account.

BUCKWALTER CLOSES PICTURE SEASON AT STRATTON PARK

Buckwalter's motion picture season at Stratton park ended last night, and this morning the apparatus will be shipped to Denver, where it will be placed in one of the large amusement resorts for the winter. The motion pictures have been running at the park for six weeks and were the most popular feature ever inaugurated, for they gave the people something for the 20 cents spent for car fare. The average attendance was far beyond expectations, which result was brought about by the high quality of the pictures shown.

"It was not necessary," said Buckwalter last night, "to show criminal or robbery pictures that tend to poison the minds of the young people, but I got the very highest class films made. This was demonstrated by the fact that more than half the pictures came from France, and they were calculated to amuse ladies and children, as well as men. I long ago found that the pictures that drew the best crowds are those that show animal or child life and create a laugh. In the better resorts all over the country there has come a revolution in the motion picture business. No more criminal or horror pictures. In fact, some cities—Chicago, for instance—have an ordinance which absolutely prohibits this class of pictures, and the result has been astonishing. Since such films have been cut out, the patronage of the resorts has more than doubled and the motion picture business has taken a wonderful in[illegible]

"Colorado has contributed very much toward the purification of the picture business, for my films of this state have created enormous enthusiasm all over the world. It is a fad throughout the east to visit Colorado by picture whenever opportunity presents and the result of this is shown by the increased travel this way. [illegible] form one of the greatest advertisements the state can possibly have. Without exaggeration, I think my Colorado moving pictures do more actual advertising for the state than all the railroad literature or boosting publications sent out. I estimate that every night of the year no less than 100,000 persons sit in front of the screens and enjoy looking at Colorado scenes. This keeping the name before the people can have only one effect and that is to induce easterners to come this way to spend their vacations. And even more. The Denver railroad officials can trace a large number of actual settlers to my moving pictures, for the desire to settle in this state was first induced by seeing the wonderful scenery."

No explanation is made for closing down the Stratton park season before September 1, but it is understood that it was caused by Buckwalter's refusal to combine with his program certain films that he considered objectionable and far inferior to his standard. Rather than run these pictures and delude the crowds that he had worked up by showing only high-class subjects he closed the show.

M'CARTY TRAINS CLEVER CAST

JUDGE MASTERSON AND ALDERMAN ALBIN ARE INCLUDED IN LEADING ROLES FOR K. OF P. PLAY.

"Damon and Pythias," to be presented at the Opera house tomorrow night, by a cast of local actors and actresses, under the direction of Lawrence McCarty, the well-known dramatist, who has played with Booth and other leading actors, was given a dress rehearsal at the Opera house Saturday.

The entire play was gone through, and the cast is ready to greet the big audience which will fill the Opera house to see the presentation of the beautiful story, on which the order of the Knights of Pythias is founded.

With Lawrence McCarty as "Pythias and Judge Murat Masterson as "Damon," two men who know their roles from having acted them many times, the cast has a strong leading. Mrs. Osie Kramer as "Calanthe," Mrs. Lawrence McCarty as "Hermione," and Mrs. Florence Gault as "Arria," are especially clever in their parts. Alderman Carl Albin plays "Dionysius" the tyrant, in truly professional style. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCarty takes the part of "Orrion" and displays marked ability.

The play is one of the most beautiful ever staged here, and Mr. McCarty has shown the skill of the tried stage veteran in directing the members of the cast, who have been drilled to perfection.

The duel between Pythias and Procles in the first act, the senate scene in the second, the scene [illegible] and Damon in the third, and that between Damon and his wife and child in the fourth are especially strong. The thrilling scene between Damon and Lucullus in the fourth act is one of the best of the play.

A delegation of Cripple Creek and Victor Pythians was present at the rehearsal and at its close urged the company to present the drama in those towns.

MUST ACCOUNT FOR SHORTAGE

ELK HOTEL CLERK WILL HAVE TO PRODUCE CASH OR FACE SERIOUS CHARGE, WHEN SOBER.

A. H. Rawlings, day clerk and cashier at the Elk hotel, is in jail on a charge of drunkenness, but behind his arrest lies the fact that his accounts with the hotel are about $75 short. When J. M. Ward, proprietor of the Elk, went to Rawlings' room to demand an explanation, he found Rawlings hastily packing his trunk. The police were notified and Rawlings was placed under arrest by City Detectives John Rowan and C. C. McReynolds.

Rawlings is about 30 years old. He has been at the Elk for the last two months and has been trusted with the handling of the cash. When arrested yesterday he had only a few dollars on his person. The fact that he was packing his trunk is taken by the officers as proof that he intended to leave the city.

MRS. NELLIE C. HOYSRADT, WIDOW OF 73 YEARS, EXPIRES AFTER DAYS OF UNCONSCIOUSNESS.

After lying unconscious for nearly 60 hours as a result of a stroke of apoplexy, Mrs. Nellie C. Hoysradt, aged 73 years, and for 12 years a resident of El Paso county, died at 7:30 o'clock last night at her home, 176 East Manitou avenue, Arensdale. Mrs. Hoysradt was found Friday morning by a neighbor, sitting, half dressed, on the edge of her bed, unconscious from a stroke of apoplexy. She was placed in bed and given medical attention, but did not rally, and regained semiconsciousness only for a few minutes before her death.

The aged woman had been a widow for several years, and her only known relative is a niece living in Minneapolis, who will arrive here tomorrow to take charge of the remains. Mrs. Hoysradt was a member of the Women's Relief corps, and was well known in Colorado Springs and Manitou. She gained a livelihood by book-selling, and lived in this city for seven or eight years prior to her removal to Arensdale.

From the Denver Republican.

Although he says he consumed in his life 12,775 gallons of alcohol, D. L. Osborn, "D. S. G.," has lived to the ripe old age of 86, and is a shining example of a cure made by the Christian assembly which is holding forth at Arlington park, out near Fourth and Emerson avenues.

A few months ago, according to the story, this marvel of alcoholic consumption was discovered in Kansas City by Rev. G. Frederick Fink, the director of the assembly and high priest of the sect. Osborn was then using crutches and was carrying around with him some of the 12,000 odd gallons of whisky. In short, he was about to die. The hands were laid on him, and lo! there was nothing more doing for him in "booze" consumption.

The 12,775 gallons of alcohol is some "booze," and in order to get that much under his belt, Elder Osborn had to start early, which he did about the time he was 16 years old. He drank half a gallon a day until four months ago, and he is now 86 years old. The alcohol consumed by this one man would run a ten-horse power automobile three and one-half times around the earth, with some to spare.

The "D. S. G." following Elder Osborn's name interpreted stands for "Drunkard Saved by Grace."

Mr. Osborn tells all about the quantities of rum he has stowed away at every meeting.

The meeting opened with three cheers for Jesus and the aggregation might easily have been taken for college football enthusiasts. The cheering continued throughout the meeting and whenever one of the speakers said anything that pleased his auditors deep murmurings of approval went up from the assembled people.

POLITICAL POT BEGINS TO BOIL

congressman-at-large, in Senator Arthur Cornforth. His opponents will be Thomas J. Downen, a prominent attorney of Pueblo and popular in G. A. R. circles, and Colonel G. W. Cook, of Denver, who also has a large following among the old soldiers.

The candidates for the nomination in the Second congressional district, in which Colorado Springs is situated, are E. N. Cutting, of Montrose, W. A. Haggott, [illegible], and Thomas Hoffman, Pueblo. In the First congressional district Robert Bonynge, the present incumbent, has no opposition.

The committees on judicial, legislative, senatorial and representative conventions will meet in this city today and decide upon convention dates.

Tomorrow the county central committee will meet and determine the date and place of meeting of the county convention. The convention will probably be held either September 11 or 12 in the county court house in this city. The primaries are expected to be held September 8. The apportionment of delegates will be decided by the central committee tomorrow.

The list of candidates and prospective candidates for state offices on the Republican ticket to date is made up as follows:

Governor—Frank Gowdy, of Denver; John Holmburg, Denver, present state treasurer; George W. Swink, Rocky Ford; Judge N. W. Dixon, Pueblo; E. B. Stewart, Colorado Springs; William Drake, Larimer county; John Monahan, Park county; A. E. Bent, Prowers county, present state auditor. Colonel G. W. Cook is being urged for the nomination of governor as well as of that of congressman-at-large.

Attorney General—N. C. Miller, of Durango, the present incumbent; W. H. Dixon, speaker of the state legislature, and Charles Dickerson, both of Denver.

State Auditor—G. G. Withers, Pueblo.

State Treasurer—A. E. Bent, of Prowers county, if he is not a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

State Chairman D. B. Fairley said last night that the state situation is very encouraging. He knew of no factional fights that had occurred or would occur. Harmony prevailed at the meeting of the state central committee, and the same spirit would exist at the state convention. The matter of the seating of the delegates to the state committee meeting from Arapahoe county could be in no way construed as a factional difference. The committee had reversed his position in seating one set of delegates, but the matter was brought about by a territorial technicality, and the delegates seated by the committee were the regular ones, notwithstanding the courts of the county had decided that the other set were entitled to recognition. Mr. Fairley had previously agreed to recognize the court decision, but there was no question that the other delegates were the accredited committeemen, as far as regularity went.

MISSED FARES

WHEN "CAR BEHIND" WAS OVERLOADED BY PATRONS DUMPED ON PRAIRIE.

One of the worst cases of abuse of the rights of patrons was shown by the street car company about 10:30 o'clock last night, and loud complaints were registered. One of the Stratton park cars was coming toward the city with about forty passengers. Soon after leaving the junction with the Broadmoor line the conductor suddenly stopped the car and announced that all passengers must get off and take the next car. There were protests against being dumped out on the prairie, but everybody—men, women and children—were compelled to change. When the next car came along it was crowded almost to the limit of its capacity. The new arrivals were compelled to find standing room behind others then on the footboard, where the danger of falling off or coming into contact with bridge piers was very great.

The one gleam of satisfaction for the angry patrons was the fact that the crowd on the car was so large that enough fares were missed to pay for two or three full trips of the car that was sent to the barn.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

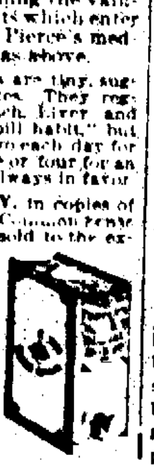

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of MEDICINES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery" the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not beget the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor.

that may be, but I can not forbear suggesting in this connection that if the convention should try to conform to the rules prescribed by Mr. Burton of indorsing 'less cordially' than the president those who may have differed from the president as to some matter no matter how honestly—it would have some hard problems to solve.

"For instance, if Senator Dick is to be indorsed 'less cordially' than the president because he did not agree with the president about the Philippine tariff bill, what is the convention to do as to General Keifer and the six other distinguished Ohio Republican members of congress who joined with that sturdy old veteran in opposing and voting against the president as to that measure—one of them, Mr. Nevin, who represents the district in which the convention will be held? Are they also to be 'officially rebuked' by indorsing them 'less cordially' than the president and their colleagues who voted with the president? And how about Mr. Burton himself?

"Take another case. The president and Secretary Taft made known to congress at the last session that unless we restricted them to American they would go abroad to purchase supplies and materials to be used in the construction of the Panama canal when they could buy them cheaper abroad, thus saving money on the purchase, and, as they were to be used in Panama and not brought into this United States, saving the tariff duties besides.

"In the senate this resolution received the support of every Republican. In the house it was supported by the vote of every Ohio Republican except the vote of Mr. Burton. He voted 'no.'

"I do not mention this to criticise him, for he not only had a perfect right but it was his duty so to vote if that was his judgment. No self-respecting man would consent to hold a seat in congress if he could not so vote; but I mention it to show that if we indorse the party and what congress has done as we must and then apply his rule, he will have to be indorsed 'less cordially' than his party.

"And so I might go on indefinitely asking and answering many similar questions, but I forbear until the convention, when if I have opportunity, I will be glad to go fully into the subject for the benefit of all who may be sufficiently concerned to listen, if there are any such."

AERONAUT MAKES SUCCESSFUL TRIP

IN AIR 24 HOURS AND PASSES THROUGH TWO STATES AND REACHES ALTITUDE OF 10,000 FEET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Dr. Julian P. Thomas, the amateur aeronaut, who, with his brother, Jefferson Davis Thomas, of Augusta, Ga., made a balloon ascension here Saturday evening, returned to his residence tonight, after having been in the air for nearly 24 hours and having passed through two states and reaching an altitude of about 10,000 feet. His voyage ended this afternoon in Oakdale, Sullivan county, this state.

In relation to his experiences, Dr. Thomas said:

"During the trip the propeller, which was carried for the first time, worked nicely. I found that we were able to go either to the left or right and, in fact, turn the balloon completely around. About 9 o'clock last night, the wind gave out and so we made preparations for a descent. This we did successfully. We reached Breemerville, N. J., and there made a descent. Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning we again ascended. We went up through the clouds and reached an altitude of 10,000 feet. I then slept for an hour.

"When I awoke I discovered that we were descending rapidly—in fact, we were going down almost in a straight line. We then made preparations to land, but coming out of the clouds, found ourselves over a forest. Throwing out the guy rope we caught hold of a tree and pulled ourselves to the earth."

CONSIDER IMPORTATION OF FOREIGN GOODS

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 26.—A commission, consisting of representatives of the ministers of finance, foreign affairs, interior, war, marine and agriculture, has been appointed to consider whether the free importation of foreign goods into the province of Amur shall be continued, or if the tariff obtaining prior to May 1, 1904, shall be enforced.

A STATE OF SIEGE.

VALPARAISO, Aug. 26.—A state of siege continues here and nobody is allowed on the streets after six o'clock in the evening. There have been some accidents as the result of the use of dynamite in the blowing up of damaged buildings. President Riesco has replied to an offer of the European banking firm of Rothschild to help sufferers from the earthquake, saying that he hopes Chilean resources will be sufficient for this purpose.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

"That's nothing," rejoined Newpop. "My girl is only 4 months old and she can raise the whole house."

Korea has matrimonial complications in high circles. No young women of the better class can be married till a consort for the crown prince has been selected. For not sending lists of eligibles as ordered three governors of provinces are slated for punishment.

If you have been using the ordinary 10 cent cereals because Pillsbury's Best Breakfast Food Vitos costs 15 cents, just figure with us for a moment and see where the true economy lies. Pillsbury's Vitos contains two pounds of the "White heart of the Wheat," and when easily and quickly prepared makes 12 pounds of delicious food; a package of the ordinary cooked kind usually contains about 7/8 of a pound, and costs you 10 cents or about 11 cents a pound. "Pillsbury" is a name that really means something the world over in the wheat food line. A food equally good in summer or in winter.

MONDAY, AUGUST 27, 1906.

TRICKY TOM, ONCE MORE.

A WISE man once remarked that liars should have good memories. Without any desire to make odious comparisons we might extend this aphorism to include politicians of the Patterson stripe. The Senator is a smooth gentleman, exceedingly smooth, but it is possible for a man to be so smooth that he sometimes slips. And when to this unfortunate facility is linked a memory so bad that it causes him to contradict himself flatly in his public utterances, he is liable occasionally to place himself before the people in a very unfavorable light.

Now for specific instances. People who have the patience and the questionable taste to read the Rocky Mountain News were treated yesterday to ten columns of documents in evidence in a red-hot dispute now raging between Senator Patterson and former Governor Thomas. What it is all about is of little importance; for the purposes of this article it is sufficient to say that Mr. Thomas fills five columns of valuable space with his views "in full and without reserve" on the Democratic situation in Denver, and Senator Patterson fills five equally valuable columns with an answer thereto. In the course of this answer he adverts to the circumstances under which he was elected to the Senate in January, 1901, and makes this statement:

"It can hardly be said that Senator Patterson was the beneficiary in any sense of this corporation financiering of the machine committee, for not until after he was elected to the Senate in 1901 did he announce himself to be a Democrat, and until after the election of that year he was an avowed Populist, and was elected to the Senate without abjuring his political creed."

Unfortunately for the senator's reputation for veracity he is on record in another statement, just as unequivocal, which does not look well when printed as a deadly parallel to the one here quoted. In the Congressional Record for February 7, 1906, page 2154, the subject being the memorable drubbing administered to Senator Patterson by Senator Bailey for the former's repudiation of the caucus agreement on the Santo Domingo treaty, Mr. Patterson is quoted as saying:

"I was elected by a combination of Populist, Silver Republican, and Democratic votes, under no false colors. Before the election and it was before the election I made the speech—I told them plainly where I was going, for I like to deal frankly with all who are dealing with me. I never aim or intend to sail under false colors."

It is only six months since Patterson made this assertion on the floor of the Senate, but now he contradicts it. When he declared that he publicly announced his conversion to the Democratic faith before being elected to the Senate he misstated the facts, but let us be charitable and attribute this misstatement to the intense excitement under which he labored at the time. Bailey had him on the rack and was simply "making a monkey" of him. Patterson tried in vain to parry the Texan's thrusts, and in his wild floundering he made more than one break for which he was promptly called to account. But his adversary probably did not know the exact time when Patterson changed his political colors, and was therefore unable to catch him on this point.

As a matter of fact Patterson did not deliver the speech referred to until after his election to the Senate. So long as his fate was still in doubt he was all things to all men. His henchmen went among the legislators assuring the Democrats that he was a Democrat, the Populists that he was a Pop, and the free silver cranks that he was the great and original champion of cheap money. Patterson was out for the votes and he wasn't very particular about where they came from or what kind of promises were made to secure them. He worked both sides of the road and likewise the middle. If there had been a member of the legislature who believed that the free silver states ought to secede from the Union and establish a separate government it is pretty certain that a Patterson wire-puller would have gone after him with the assurance that the great lawyer-statesman-editor held precisely the same views and therefore deserved his vote.

This episode is important only insofar as it shows up the senior Senator in his favorite trick of carrying water on both shoulders. The gentleman who so blandly assured his colleagues in the Senate that he "never aims or intends to sail under false colors" never aims or intends to do anything else. He has succeeded in making it win for a good many years, and perhaps he will make it win again, but he can't keep it up forever, especially since the overwhelming exposure of his duplicity by Senator Bailey.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

THE state central committees of both parties having met and fixed the dates for the respective state conventions, the campaign may be considered formally opened. The selection of delegates in the several counties is the next thing in order. These delegates should be chosen with care. The best citizens should be induced to go to the convention, so that it shall be made up of representative men and women who can do their own thinking, who can use good judgment in the selection of candidates, and who can help frame a platform that will properly represent the principles and policy of the party, and appeal favorably to the majority of the people of the state.

It is promised that this Republican convention will be the most absolutely unbossed convention the party has held in a dozen years. There is not even a "slate" up to the present time. The convention is absolutely free to choose whom it will as candidates for all the offices to be filled. As a matter of convenience it is easier to have a ticket picked out in advance by one man or a few, and have the convention ratify it unanimously—it saves the trouble of thinking, and it gives an appearance of harmony, and a lot of enthusiasm can be worked up. Needless to say, it is not the right way, nor the best way for the party's interests. Let there be a free-for-all contest, and then let the party stand united for the man that gets the most votes in the convention for each office, and victory is in sight.

So far as appears on the surface, the Republicans have the better position and the better chance of success. This year we elect our Representatives in Congress, and the tremendous prestige of the President and of the last session of Congress with its unparalleled record of good legislation should help the state ticket. In the state we have had peace and prosperity, and a quiet, efficient, businesslike administration of affairs such as is most conducive to the welfare of the state.

The Democrats are badly rent by internal dissensions. True, they may all get together before the campaign is over, but such a fight as Patterson and Speer have been having in Denver leaves scars. Then they have no issue, as the News kindly explained the other day, except the "vindication" of Alva Adams and the "redemption" of the Supreme Court. Mr. Adams, no doubt, has a burning desire to be "vindicated" by an election, and Mr. Patterson—for publication, and not as an evidence of good faith—will work up a stage passion about the "stolen Governorship;" but we have not heard of anybody else who is feeling very strongly about the matter. The investigation made by the legislature proved conclusively that there had been an earnest attempt on the part of the Denver Big Mitt to steal the Governorship for Adams, whether he got the most honest votes or not, and it ill becomes a party which depended for years for its majorities on the work of ballot-box stuffers and the slum votes of Denver to say much about stealing.

The issues before the people in this campaign should not arouse prejudice and passion to the extent that they were aroused two years ago. Then, the Western Federation was fighting for its life, and the Republican party was fighting for the right to maintain law and order against anarchy. The issues this year are not so fundamental or sensational, and there should not be so much bitterness. It will be the effort of the Democrats to excite feeling to as near the verge of hysterics as they can, but it seems probable that the majority of the people will not discover anything to get hysterical about.

BRYAN AS A CONSERVATIVE.

THE national Democratic party is certainly in a most remarkable condition. Two years before the Presidential campaign its leaders and its newspapers are resolving unanimously that the candidate shall be William J. Bryan. No other candidate now has a "look in." This is very complimentary to Mr. Bryan, but that is not the point we care to dwell on at this time. The most curious part of the whole affair is that the "safe and sane" Democrats are trying to make up their minds that Mr. Bryan is now a "conservative." He himself has said, only a short time since, that he is really more radical now than he was in 1896, but that seems to make no difference. They argue that he is ten years older now, he has been around the world, he has made a lot of money, and therefore, whether he knows it or not, he must be more conservative than he was.

An important part in this revulsion of feeling on the part of the conservatives has been what they regard as the "radicalism" of President Roosevelt. It is by comparison with this that Mr. Bryan's radicalism now seems mild. Mr. Roosevelt has not only talked reform, but he has induced Congress to enact reform measures which have caused some uneasiness in the temples of "high finance."

It is venturesome to prophesy, but it seems not unlikely that Mr. Bryan himself will, in the course of the next two years, dissipate the ideas of his conservatism that seem now to be held. He is accustomed to speak and write a great deal, and if we do not miss our guess, he is likely to promulgate some ideas that will in turn make Mr. Roosevelt seem conservative again in comparison. His ideas of the respective functions of the national government and the state governments seem to be a little mixed at present, but he is really in favor of a much greater degree of paternalism than Mr. Roosevelt is, and it will show before long.

THE GALVESTON PLAN.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The great disaster at Galveston left one legacy which is believed by some students to be destined to be of the utmost importance to organized society. It was a new form of city government, suggested by the conditions following the disaster of government by commission. To the present time it has proved so remarkably successful that it has brought about almost a revolution in the management of the city. Houston, which has had the advantage of watching the experiment from near at hand, has adopted it, and there is thought to be an excellent chance of its spreading throughout the country as it becomes better known.

The conditions at Galveston after the destruction there were particularly bad. Not only was a great part of the city wiped out, but previous to this and without regard to it, the city had been so viciously and extravagantly managed that it was practically bankrupt. As the only feasible way of keeping it from entire ruin, the plan of managing its affairs by a commission of five men was considered and adopted as a temporary provision. As the law was first enacted, three of these men were appointed by the governor, and two were elected by the city. After a decision that this was unconstitutional, it was decided to make a change, and at the present time all five of the commissioners are elected.

Each one of these officials is at the head of one line of the city's business. One is the president of the board, one is in charge of finance and revenue, one of the waterworks and sewage system, another of police and fire departments, and the fifth of streets and public property. Each man is responsible for his departments, and makes all nominations, subject to the approval of a majority vote of the commissioners. The management of the local government under this system has done wonderfully well in Galveston. Starting with a desperate condition of affairs, it has paid the total floating debt of the city, reconstructed the municipal plants, built the great new sea wall at a cost of $4,000,000, and paid for everything, not only without issuing bonds, but without increasing the tax rate. There is now some apprehension locally lest making the offices elective will tend to lower the character of men willing to take the offices. But such has not yet proved to be the case. And the friends of better government will watch with great interest the progress of the plan in Texas. It is certainly most excellent for use in emergencies, and there is every reason to believe that a small body of this kind is much better fitted for the management of our big municipal business corporations that the unwieldy and miscellaneously chosen miniature legislatures which are now in control of them. There is, in fact, good reason to suspect that much of the mismanagement of cities comes from the handling of their affairs by the antiquated and outworn system we are now working under.

THE NORTH CAROLINA MURDERS.

From the Washington Post.

An indelible disgrace has fallen upon the state of North Carolina. Three prisoners under charges of murder at one of the principal towns of the state, their trial having already begun and their prompt conviction and punishment being assured by due process of law, were taken from the jail by a blood-thirsty mob, struck, kicked, and hacked with knives, and then lynched. There is absolutely no palliation for this brutal and shocking crime, for crime it is, exactly as heinous as that committed by the negroes who were lynched; in fact, it is worse, for these lynchers make pretensions to education and respectability.

No plea whatever can be made in extenuation of these murders. There was no rape involved, there was no delay—in fact, there was extraordinary celerity—in bringing the accused to trial, and there was no question of their lawful punishment. The resistance to the mob was feeble and without any appearance of meaning business. That is one of the worst things about lynching. Whole communities where it is tolerated become infected with lawlessness and give way to their passions on less and less provocation. This was an occasion when the authorities should have fought to the death and, no matter at what cost, protected their prisoners and vindicated the law. One mob cut to pieces, defeated, and cowed in such an attempt to lynch would put a stop to these murderous and anarchistic outbreaks once for all.

Our institutions have no basis in loyalty to a sovereign or a family. They are founded on law alone; and if that can be constantly overridden at the whim of every mob, they will not long survive.

GABBERT WELL RECEIVED.

From the Greeley Sun.

The Denver News of Friday morning announced in red paint that Chief Justice Gabbert of the state supreme court had encountered a frost, and been snubbed on his visit to Greeley. But nothing of the kind occurred. Judge Gabbert was cordially received in Greeley. A few people were not cordial. Their politics would not permit it. But Greeley people generally appreciated the honor of having Judge Gabbert here. Many of the members of the Greeley club thought it proper to give the distinguished visitor a reception simply as a citizen at the club rooms. A few persons who are not in political accord with the chief justice did not approve of the action and this gave the yellow journals an opportunity to get out the red paint.

SAFE AND SOUND INSTRUMENTS.

From the Victor Daily Record.

The extreme prosperity of the country is no doubt partially responsible for the weakening of interest in the mining camps for the first few years. Money has been easily made in the manufacturing and agricultural sections of the country during the past four years, and financial attention has been somewhat diverted from the mining centers on that account.

But there is always a relapse in these days of the country in business. The oversupply and the [illegible] of speculation always react. In a mining community it is different, particularly so in a gold producing community. There is no danger of an oversupply of the precious metal. Gold maintains its market value universally and when there is a relapse in other business lines and the stamps [illegible] the money interests of the country turn to the gold-producing areas.

It can be expected that with the slump that is predicted in the manufacturing and agricultural centers, and that the gold producing localities should again begin to prosper, for it cannot be expected that as little wealth and interested capital will be invested in gold mines in the next four years as there has been during the past four years. Capital seeks its own level and will be attracted again to the safe and sound investment in the gold-producing communities in the near future.

Rupert turned his back to the window, bowed low, and said in his loud, merry tones:

"Apologizing for your absence, sir. Could I leave the lady alone?"

The newcomer must be Black Michael. I saw him directly, as he advanced toward the window. He caught young Rupert by the arm.

"The moat would hold more than the king!" said he, with a significant gesture.

"Does your Highness threaten me?" asked Rupert.

"A threat is more warning than most men get from me."

"Yet," observed Rupert, "Rudolf Rassendyll has been much threatened, and yet lives!"

"Am I in fault because my servants bungle?" asked Michael scornfully.

"Your Highness has run no risk of bungling!" sneered Rupert.

It was telling the duke that he shirked danger as plain as ever I have heard a man told. Black Michael had self-control. I dare say he scowled—it was a great regret to me that I could not see their faces better—but his voice was even and calm as he answered:

"Enough, enough! We mustn't quarrel, Rupert. Are Detchard and Bersonin at their posts?"

"They are, sir."

"I need you no more."

"Nay, I'm not oppressed with fatigue," said Rupert.

"Pray, sir, leave us," said Michael more impatiently. "In ten minutes the drawbridge will be drawn back and I presume you have no wish to swim to your bed."

Rupert's figure disappeared. I heard the door open and shut again. Michael and Antoinette de Mauban were left together. To my chagrin, the duke laid his hand on the window and closed it. He stood talking to Antoinette for a moment or two. She shook her head, and he turned impatiently away. She left the window. The door sounded again, and Black Michael closed the shutters.

"De Gautet, De Gautet, man!" sounded from the drawbridge. "Unless you want a bath before your bed, come along!"

It was Rupert's voice, coming from the end of the drawbridge. A moment later he and De Gautet stepped out on the bridge. Rupert's arm was through De Gautet's, and in the middle of the bridge he detained his companion and leaned over. I dropped beside the shelter of "Jacob's ladder."

Then Master Rupert had a little sport. He took from De Gautet a bottle which he carried, and put it to his lips.

"Hardly a drop!" he cried discontentedly, and flung it in the moat.

It fell, as I judge from the sound and the circles on the water, within a yard of the pipe. And Rupert, taking out his revolver, began to shoot at it. The first two shots missed the bottle, but hit the pipe. The third shattered the bottle. I hoped that the young ruffian would be content; but he emptied the other barrels at the pipe, and one, skimming over the pipe, whistled through my hair as I crouched on the other side.

"Ware bridge!" a voice cried, to my relief.

Rupert and De Gautet cried, "A moment!" and ran across. The bridge was drawn back, and all became still. The clock struck a quarter past one. I rose and stretched myself and yawned.

I think some ten minutes had passed when I heard a slight noise to my right. I peered over the pipe, and saw a dark figure standing in the gateway that led to the bridge. It was a man. By the careless, graceful poise, I guessed it to be Rupert again. He held a sword in his hand, and he stood motionless for a minute or two. Wild thoughts ran through me. On what mischief was the young fiend bent now? Then he laughed low to himself, then he turned his face to the wall, took a step in my direction, and to my surprise, began to climb down the wall. In an instant I saw that there must be steps in the wall; it was plain. They were cut into or affixed to the wall at intervals of about eighteen inches. Rupert set his foot on the lower one. Then he placed his sword between his teeth, turned round and noiselessly let himself down into the water. Had it been a matter of my life only I would have swam to meet him. Dearly would I have loved to fight it out with him then and there—with steel, on a fine night and none to come between us. But there was the king! I restrained myself, but I could not bridle my swift breathing, and I watched him with the intensest eagerness.

He swam leisurely and quietly across. There were more footsteps up on the other side and he climbed them. When he set foot in the gateway, standing on the drawn-back bridge, he felt in his pocket and took something out. I heard him unlock the door. I could hear no noise of its closing behind him. He vanished from my sight.

Abandoning my ladder, I saw I did not need it now. I swam to the side of the bridge and climbed halfway up the steps. There I hung, with my sword in my hand, listening eagerly. The duke's room was shut, [illegible] and dark. There was a light in the window on the opposite side of the bridge. Not a sound broke the silence, till half past one chimed from the great clock in the tower of the chateau.

There were other plots than mine afoot in the castle that night.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The position wherein I stood now does not appear very favorable to thought; yet for the next moment or two I thought profoundly. I had, I told myself, scored one point. Be Rupert Hentzau's errand what it might, and the villainy he was engaged on what it would, I had scored one point. He was on the other side of the moat from the king, and if only he were not too long [illegible] his escape, I could deal with him. But I could not get from the king to him [illegible]. Ah, if I had the key! I would have risked everything and attacked Detchard and Bersonin before they could be reinforced. But I was powerless. I must wait for the coming of my friends, as they—someone to cross the bridge, someone with the keys. And I waited, as it seemed, for half an hour, really for about five minutes before the next act in the tragedy began.

All was still on the other side. The duke's room remained inscrutable behind its shutters. The light burned steadily in Mme. de Mauban's window. Then I heard the faintest, faintest sound. It came from behind the door which led to the drawbridge on the other side of the moat. It but just reached my ear, yet I could not be mistaken as to what it was. It was made by a key being turned very carefully and slowly. Who was turning it? And of what room was it the key? There leaped before my eyes the picture of young Rupert, with the key in one hand, his sword in the other, and an evil smile on his face. But I did not know what door it was, nor in which of his favorite pursuits young Rupert was spending the hours of that night.

I was soon to be enlightened, for the next moment—before my friends could be near the chateau door—before Johann, the keeper, would have thought to nerve himself for his task—there was a sudden crash from the room with the lighted window. It sounded as though someone had flung down a lamp; and the window went dark and black. At the same instant a cry rang out, shrill in the night: "Help, help! Michael, help!" and was followed by a shriek of utter terror.

I was tingling in every nerve. I stood on the topmost step, clinging to the threshold of the gate with my right hand and holding my sword in my left. Suddenly I perceived that the gateway was broader than the bridge; there was a dark corner on the opposite side where a man could stand. I darted across and stood there. Thus placed, I commanded the path, and no man could pass between the chateau and the old castle till he had tried conclusions with me.

There was another shriek. Then a door was flung open and clanged against the wall, and I heard the handle of a door savagely twisted.

"Open the door! In God's name, what's the matter?" cried a voice, the voice of Black Michael himself.

He was answered by the very words I had written in my letter!

"Help, Michael—Hentzau!"

A fierce oath rang out from the duke, and with a loud thud he threw himself against the door. At the same moment I heard a window above my head open, and a voice cried: "What's the matter?" and I heard a man's hasty footsteps. I grasped my sword. If De Gautet came my way the Six would be less by one more.

Then I heard the clash of crossed swords and a tramp of feet, and—I cannot tell the thing so quickly as it happened, for all seemed to come at once. There was an angry cry from madame's room, the cry of a wounded man; the window was flung open; young Rupert stood there, sword in hand. He turned his back, and I saw his body go forward to the lunge.

"Ah, Johann, there's one for you! Come on, Michael!"

Johann was there, then—come to the rescue of the duke! How would he open the door for me? For I feared that Rupert had slain him.

"Help!" cried the duke's voice, faint and husky.

I heard a stir on the stairs above me, and I heard a stir down to my right, in the direction of the king's cell. But before anything happened on my side of the moat I saw five or six men round young Rupert in the embrasure of madame's window. Three or four times he lunged with incomparable dash and dexterity. For an instant they fell back, leaving a ring round him. He leaped on the parapet of the window, laughing as he leaped, and waving his sword in his hand. He was drunk with blood, and he laughed again wildly as he flung himself headlong into the moat.

What became of him then? I did not see, for as he leaped, De Gautet's lean face looked out through the door by me, and without a second's hesitation I struck at him with all the strength God had given me, and he fell dead in the doorway without a word or a groan. I dropped on my knees by him. Where were the keys? I found myself muttering: "The keys, man, the keys!" as though he had been yet alive and could listen; and when I could not find them I—God forgive me!—I believe I struck a dead man's face.

At last I had them. There were but three. Seizing the largest, I felt the lock of the door that led to the cell. I fitted in the key. It was right. The lock turned. I drew the door close behind me and locked it as noiselessly as I could, putting the key in my pocket.

I found myself at the top of a flight of steep stone stairs. An oil lamp burned dimly in the bracket. I took it down and held it in my hand, and I stood and listened.

"What in the devil can it be?" I heard a voice say.

It came from behind a door that faced me at the bottom of the stairs.

And another answered:

"Shall we kill him?"

I strained to hear the answer, and could have sobbed with relief when [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] I heard the [illegible] of the door [illegible] drawn back. Instantly I put out the lamp, laying it in the bracket.

"It's dark—the lamp's out. Have you a light?" said the other voice—Bersonin's.

No doubt they had a light, but they should not use it. It was come to the crisis now, and I rushed down the steps and flung myself against the door. Bersonin had unbolted it and it gave way before me. The Belgian stood there, sword in hand, and Detchard was sitting on a couch at the side of the room. In astonishment at seeing me, Bersonin recoiled; Detchard jumped to his sword. I rushed madly at the Belgian; he gave way before me, and I drove him up against the wall. He was no swordsman, though he fought bravely, and in a moment he lay on the floor before me. I turned—Detchard was not there. Faithful to his orders, he had not risked a fight with me, but had rushed straight to the door of the king's room and slammed it behind him. Even now he was at his work inside.

And surely he would have killed the king, and perhaps me also, had it not been for one devoted man who gave his life for the king. For when I forced the door, the sight I saw was this: The king stood in the corner of the room; broken by his sickness, he could do nothing; his fettered hands moved aimlessly up and down, and he was laughing horribly in half-mad delirium. Detchard and the doctor were together in the middle of the room; and the doctor had flung himself on the murderer, pinning his hands to his side for an instant. Then Detchard wrenched himself free from the feeble grip, and as I entered drove his sword through the hapless man.

Then he turned on me, crying:

"At last!"

We were sword to sword. By chance neither he nor Bersonin had been wearing their revolvers. I found them afterward, ready loaded, on the mantelpiece of the outer room; it was hard by the door, ready to their hands, but my sudden rush in had cut off access to them. Yes, we were man to man; and we began to fight, silently, sternly and hard. Yet I remember little of it, save that the man was my match with the sword—nay, and more, for he knew more tricks than I; and that he forced me back against the bars that guarded the entrance to "Jacob's ladder." And I saw a smile on his face, and he wounded me in the left arm.

No glory do I take for that contest. I believe that the man would have mastered me and slain me, and then done his butcher's work, for he was the most skillful swordsman I have ever met; but even as he pressed me hard the half-mad, wasted, wan creature in the corner leaped high in lunatic mirth, shrieking:

"It's Cousin Rudolf! Cousin Rudolf! I'll help you, Cousin Rudolf!" and catching up a chair in his hands (he could but just lift it from the ground and hold it uselessly before him), he came toward us. Hope came to me.

"Come on!" I cried. "Come on! Drive it against his legs."

Detchard replied with a savage thrust. He all but had me.

"Come on! Come on, man!" I cried. "Come and share the fun!"

And the king laughed gleefully, and came on, pushing his chair before him.

With an oath Detchard skipped back, and before I knew what he was doing had turned his sword against the king. He made one fierce cut at the king, and the king, with a piteous cry, dropped where he stood. The stout ruffian turned to face me again. But his own hand had prepared his destruction; for in turning he trod in the pool of blood that flowed from the dead physician. He slipped; he fell. Like a dart I was upon him. I caught him by the throat, and before he could recover himself I drove my blade through his neck, and with a stifled curse he fell across the body of his victim.

Was the king dead? It was my first thought. I rushed to where he lay. Aye, it seemed as if he were dead, for he had a great gash across the forehead, and he lay still in a huddled mass on the floor. I dropped on my knees beside him, and leaned my ear down to hear if he breathed. But before I could, there was a loud rattle from the outside. I knew the sound: the drawbridge was being pushed out. A moment later it rang home against the wall on my side of the moat. I should be caught in a trap and the king with me, if he yet lived. He must take his chance, to live or to die. I took my sword, and passed into the outer room. Who were pushing the drawbridge out—my men? If so, all was well. My eye fell on the revolvers, and I seized one; and paused to listen in the doorway of the outer room. To listen, say I? Yes, and to get my breath; and I tore my shirt and twisted a strip of it round my bleeding arm, and stood listening again. I would have given the world to hear Sapt's voice. For I was faint, spent, and weary. And that wildcat Rupert Hentzau was yet at large in the castle. Yet, because I could better defend the narrow door at the top of the stairs than the wider entrance to the room, I dragged myself up the steps and stood behind it, listening.

What was the sound? Again a strange one for the place and the time. An easy, scornful, merry laugh—the laugh of young Rupert Hentzau! I could scarcely believe that a sane man would laugh. Yet the laugh told me that my men had not come; for they must have shot Rupert ere now if they had come. And the clock struck half-past two! My God! The door had not been opened! They had gone to the bank! They had not found me! They had gone by now back to Tarlenheim with the news of the king's death and mine. Well, it would be true before they got there. Was not Rupert laughing in triumph?

For a moment I sank, unnerved, against the door. Then I started up alert again, for Rupert cried scornfully:

"Well, the bridge is there! Come over it! And in God's name, let's see Black Michael! Keep back, you curs! Michael, come and fight for her!"

If it were a three-cornered fight I might yet bear my part. I turned the key in the door and looked out.

HOT WEATHER.

A seething alley, narrow, hot,
On curbstone and on sill
The lifeless waiting of a tot,
Wan, restless, weak and ill.

A draggled woman, white with fear,
Still nestling to her breast
The little form she called her dear,
Gone to its dreamless rest.

SPRINGS MAN HURT IN WRECK

PASSENGER BOUND FOR THIS CITY AND THOUGHT TO LIVE HERE HAS SKULL FRACTURED.

An unknown passenger, bound for Colorado Springs, where he is thought to have a wife and family awaiting him, sustained a fractured skull in a wreck on the Denver & Fort Worth railroad, 30 miles north of Amarillo, Texas, early Friday morning.

Several other Colorado-bound passengers received injuries ranging from a broken leg to slight bruises, according to James B. McFarland, a prominent druggist of Dallas, Texas, who, with his wife, was a passenger on the wrecked train.

"The wreck was caused by the collapse of a trestle," said Mr. McFarland last night, at the Alta Vista hotel. "The engine was running at such speed that it gained the other side of the embankment after the trestle had given way, and although the wheels left the track, they remained on the ties. The tender overturned, hanging onto the engine, and the baggage car rolled down the embankment, but remained upright. The day coach was completely demolished, and it seems a miracle that the 25 occupants were not all killed.

"The diner formed a perfect bridge across the narrow chasm, completely replacing the broken trestle. The two Pullman cars, containing approximately 50 passengers, stopped before reaching the chasm, but my wife and myself, together with other Pullman passengers, felt the shock severely.

"One man, bound for Colorado Springs, sustained a fractured skull, and another received a broken leg, while numerous minor injuries were received by the others. A. Dr. Fry of Amarillo dressed the wounds of the injured, who were later removed to Dalhart, about 80 miles north. The uninjured passengers remained at the scene of the wreck all night. In the morning we were taken back to Amarillo, leaving there at noon and arriving in Colorado Springs Saturday morning.

"No one seemed to know the name of the passenger who sustained a fracture of the skull. Numerous others were en route to Denver and other Colorado points."

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland are spending a few days in Colorado Springs, and will return to Texas next week. Mr. McFarland is president of the McFarland Drug company of Dallas.

CITY ATTORNEY WILL STAND PAT

ROBINSON TO ADVISE THE CITY COUNCIL TO PASS HIS METER INSPECTOR ORDINANCE TONIGHT.

The four months fight in the city council over the passage of a meter inspector ordinance will come to a climax at tonight's council meeting, when City Attorney William C. Robinson will advise the aldermen to pass the ordinance written and submitted by the city attorney two months ago.

The city attorney takes the stand that, as the ordinance was written by him at the council's request and embodies all of the ideas which he thinks practicable, it is folly for the council to refer other meter inspector ordinances to him to be rewritten. He will therefore advise the council tonight to pass his ordinance.

Judge Robinson said yesterday that he had not disagreed with the committee of aldermen which has been appointed to confer with him in regard to the numerous meter inspector ordinances.

"I am not an alderman, nor a member of the city council, and I cannot therefore be a member of one of the council's committees. However, I told the committee that I would help them out with any legal points in connection with the ordinances," said the city attorney. The committee is composed of Aldermen Albin, Seldomridge and McCaffery.

Other matters scheduled to come up at tonight's meeting are the appointment of an arbitrator to represent the city in the settlement of the Hydro-Electric controversy and the consideration of Alderman Hosman's new ordinance licensing cement contractors.

AERIAL FIRE TRUCK

SPRINGS NEW FIRE-FIGHTING APPARATUS WILL ARRIVE THIS WEEK

Colorado Springs' new $4,650 aerial fire truck, the first piece of aerial fire-fighting apparatus to be seen in this city, will arrive here this week. Fire Chief Fred Armbruster has received word that the truck left the factory at Columbus, Ohio, last Tuesday and that it will be here by the end of this week.

The new truck is said to be one of the finest ever produced by an American factory. It will cost the city $4,650, delivered. The truck carries a monster sliding ladder, which can be raised to the top of a tall building to allow the firemen to throw the water down into the fire. Fire authorities say that this is the only successful way of fighting fire in a large building.

Chief Armbruster is planning to give a number of public exhibitions with the new apparatus during the Pike's Peak Centennial celebration. A squad of firemen from the Denver department who won first honors at the St. Louis World's fair in 1904 will come to the Springs during the Centennial and take part in the exhibitions with the new aerial ladder.

HAS NOT HEARD FROM HUSBAND

WALTER HARMER'S WIFE BELIEVES HE WILL RETURN TO SPRINGS OR SEND FOR HER

"If I should ever leave Colorado Springs, Arthur, take care of Martha until I come back. And [illegible] back, too."

This is what Walter A. Harmer, the defaulting assistant city passenger agent of the Santa Fe, said to Arthur G. Landrain, his brother-in-law, just three days before he [illegible] with $500 of the Santa Fe's money.

Arthur Landrain, brother of Mrs. Harmer, is a resident of Cripple Creek. He came to the Springs yesterday and told his sister of her husband's request. The news gave Mrs. Harmer renewed hope that her husband has not left her for good, and she now firmly believes that he will some day return to her.

"I have no thought of giving up my husband, or getting a divorce," she said yesterday, when asked in regard to a rumor that she would apply to the courts for a divorce. "I know that Walter will either return to me or send after me some time. I would not think of leaving him when he is in trouble."

Ten days have now elapsed since Harmer left Colorado Springs, and his wife has not received a line from him. She will go to Cripple Creek this week, and remain with her brother, Arthur, until she hears from her husband.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

A GOOD MUSICAL COMEDY AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The attraction at the Opera house this evening is one of the season's best musical comedy successes, "Looking for a Wife." Fortunate indeed is the manager who can secure the services of such a well-balanced company as will present this play. Best known among the players are the versatile comedians, Wheeler and Russell, who for many years have been before the public as entertainers of recognized merit. Surrounding these two is a cast of particularly suitable actors and a chorus of the prettiest and best formed young ladies that could be engaged. Great care was exercised in the selection of the costumes, which blend harmoniously and the musical numbers were staged under the personal direction of one of New York's best producers. The scenery, of which there is more than plenty, is the workmanship of Seavy, who for years was the chief scenic artist of the Frohman staff.

The play, being different from the majority of musical comedies, has a plot, woven around the affairs of one Howe Green, an American Irishman who has struck it rich in the Klondike gold fields and who, being tired of spending his money alone, is in search of a wife. The many complications he encounters in this wife-hunting campaign form one of the most amusing stories ever written. The prices of admission for this performance will be 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

THE WIZARD OF WALL STREET COMPANY

The Wizard of Wall Street company, headed by such well-known artists as Virden and Dunlap, will play an engagement of four days at the Opera house commencing next Wednesday evening. On Wednesday evening they will present by request the popular farce comedy "A Married Bachelor." On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, matinee and nights they will be seen in their road play, "The Wizard of Wall Street," a musical comedy full of fun, music and specialties, including "The Wizard Trio." The matinee and evening prices will be as usual. This attraction, headed by such popular artists as "Virden and Dunlap," should crowd the Opera house every afternoon and evening.

AT THE VILLA.

Professor Burford, who has been giving fancy skating exhibitions at the Ollinger roller-skating rink during the summer season, gave to a packed house last Saturday evening one of the prettiest and most scientific exhibitions of the season. Three months ago when Prof. Burford first came to Colorado Springs, there seemed to be no room for improvement for his exhibition, but since that time, and for each and every performance which he has given once or twice each week, he has by hard practice introduced some new clever tricks or stunts.

Sometimes his exhibition would consist wholly of clever tricks such as an exhibition in toe and heel work, in which he seems to have a wonderful balance in executing a one-heel or toe poise, both forward and backward, making a figure eight on heel or toe, then while in the same position skating to the middle of the floor and assuming a balancing feat of standing on heel or toe. All the foretold work is what would be classed as trick skating, but the feature and most beautiful part of his skating is the illustrated work of figures and diagrams in chalk, which comes under the head of fancy skating, in which he plainly weaves together around his fancy skated initials, flowers, fancy diagrams, figures and different kinds of grapevines, etc. Prof. Burford then changes his costume and ends up his exhibition by doing his daring work of high and broad jumping both forward and backward, which seems to be very trying on everyone's nerves for fear he may slip or fall in executing some of his daring leaps.

We have watched Prof. Burford from his first appearance in the Springs, and we not only believe him to hold the world's championship in high and broad jumping, but also believe he is coming the world's best trick and fancy skater. Prof. Burford's next exhibition will be in chalk work on next Thursday evening.

The response will be made by J. J. Keenan, president of the league. The convention will resume at 2 o'clock.

In the evening a fine literary symposium will be held at the Broadway theater, at which Opie Read, Elbert Hubbard and others will be attractions.

Wednesday will be spent in a trip over the Moffat road, and Thursday in the trip around the Horn. On Friday the delegation will come to Colorado Springs, visiting South Cheyenne canon and ascending Pike's Peak. They will spend the night encamped in the Garden of the Gods. Cripple Creek will be visited Saturday, and the trip through the Royal Gorge to Glenwood Springs will be made Sunday.

How Much "Dead Wood" Have You in Your Advertising?

The "dead wood" unprofitable mediums in lists used by advertisers who have transferred their accounts to Lord & Thomas in the past year, has proved to be as high as 33 per cent in the light of the Lord & Thomas Record of Results.

THIS 33 per cent of "dead wood" was counter-acting or offsetting profitable results from another 33 per cent of the list, leaving the campaign limping along on the remaining 34 per cent of publications.

Even so, in many cases, the advertising had been considered successful.

But WE do not consider an advertising campaign successful until it has reached the greatest possible measure of success.

We do not consider a list of advertising mediums safe to use for our clients until each publication has been "MEASURED" by the actual results tabulated in the Lord & Thomas Record of Results.

This Record of Results is a compilation of weekly confidential reports on returns from all good newspapers and other media sent us by those of our clients who have a direct check on their advertising.

By comparing what each medium IS accomplishing, we can foretell what it WILL accomplish on similar propositions.

So you see we have practically eliminated the element of chance in advertising, by making it unnecessary to experiment (with consequent waste) in questionable copy and mediums.

We ask an opportunity to explain to you, personally, and in detail, what the Largest Advertising Agency in America with all its experience is ready to do to earn advertising success for you, rather than to gain it on a speculation with your money.

One of our representatives is in your city every few days looking after the interests of some of our present clients. That is why we are advertising in this newspaper to you NOW. Will you write, granting us an interview in your office?

Your letter will not obligate you in any way.

COLORADO SPRINGS WELL REPRESENTED IN NEVADA

Special Correspondence to The Gazette.

BULLION, Nev., Aug. 26.—Both Bullion and Tenabo, which lie near together, and which are accessible by stage from Browane, a distance of 24 miles, are enjoying considerable activity at present, and among the many interested here are a number from Colorado Springs and other points in Colorado.

Bullion has the edge on Tenabo just at present on account of water. At Bullion they have some fine springs, and a nice stream of water running through the camp, but Tenabo has several ways in which it can develop water and I understand has decided to put in water at once. I think there will also be a camp at Mud Springs, or near there. Mud Springs is on the north end of the district.

We have two distinct belts running parallel from south to north. On the west, in the higher range of hills is the silver belt. This belt was worked on years ago and developed some great mines, among them the Cortez, just across the valley from Tenabo. It has a record of some $16,000,000.

A very promising property is the Dutchman, owned by Colorado Springs people, Harry Mills of the Springs in charge. They are just developing, piling the ore on the dump. She has the ear marks of making a good one. Adjoining is a group of claims just lately acquired by W. S. Montgomery, also of the Springs. Among the group is the Tiger claim. He has only had men on the property prospecting three or four days, and yesterday when I visited the property his expert prospector, a Mr. Raleigh, had just uncovered a four-foot vein.

What is known as the Green property was recently acquired by W. R. Jenkins of Colorado Springs. This group comprises four claims. But little work has been done, except the location work, but it is in very promising territory.

Before leaving this part of the district, or what is known as the gold belt, I should mention the Two Widows, lately acquired by a Mr. Raleigh of Salt Lake. He has opened a nice body of ore, coming on north over into the old town of Bullion.

Here at Bullion appears to me to be one of the natural propositions for a camp, as it has the edge on the water. There appears to be some question as to title to certain land here, where the town or camp should be located. A party goes to work to develop a claim so as to acquire title to a particular tract of land, very desirable for townsite purposes. He starts to sink on a very common looking cropping and by the time he reaches thirty feet a wonderful showing is found which they pronounce a silver proposition. I was interested enough in the matter to get a sample and forward it to Mr. Woodward, our home assayer, and he gives me 2.32 ounces gold and only 6.5 ounces silver, which leads me to believe they may be mistaken in what they term their silver belt. Now going north from here we come into what is called the Mud Springs country, a distance of some four miles from Bullion. I should have mentioned that Bullion is about three miles from Tenabo; at Mud Springs is the newer part of the camp.

The most promising showing in this part of the camp is the Black Rock, lately acquired by W. S. Montgomery of Colorado Springs. He has fourteen claims in the one group and has a contact between the porphyry and quartzite. I have seen pannings off of this group that were immense.

There is very little vacant ground to be had in this section.

TO ERECT NEW 500-TON MILL

CONSOLIDATED GEM MINES OF IDAHO SPRINGS COMPLETING EXHAUSTIVE TESTS FOR CYANIDE MILL.

IDAHO SPRINGS.—The sampling and tests of the Gem mines preparatory to the erection of a mill of 500 tons daily capacity, providing for final treatment by cyanide, has been completed and a thorough check sampling and survey of ore reserves is now being made at the order of the eastern owners. The original tests which have been made upon a comprehensive scale during the last year enabled the development of the system of treatment which is suitable to the mine's product and the examination now making is expected to prove merely corroborative of the findings heretofore.

Mr. Stumm of the Gem management states that there is more ore in reserve and better average values prevailing than ever before, while the equipment and operating avenues have within the last year been brought to a high state of efficiency and economy. The shaft is 2,200 feet deep and connected with the Newhouse tunnel and levels opened upon the several veins at each 100-foot level, extending several hundred feet laterally and blocking out numerous ore shoots, making the mine the greatest in the entire district in the extent and practical value of its development. It has for years maintained a production approximating 100 tons daily with but comparatively small inroads upon the ore.—Idaho Springs Mining Gazette.

RICH ORE SHOOT

SARATOGA MINE STRIKES BEST BODY OF ORE IN NEWHOUSE TUNNEL.

IDAHO SPRINGS.—The remarkable strike of rich ore in the Saratoga mine in the Newhouse tunnel level improves as the drift penetrates the shoot. The streak of smelting ore is two feet in width and a careful test shows 3.18 ounces gold and 18 ounces silver per ton. The crevice matter accompanying the ore has 84 ounces gold per ton. The ore is continuous and is conclusively the ore shoot of the ninth level recovered. The values are higher than those of the lower levels of the shaft workings and the general character of the ore body more nearly resembles that found near surface. A peculiar condition is that the ore body seems to be coming up from below. It was first encountered in the bottom of the drift and did not come to the top until the level had been extended several feet. It is the richest body of ore yet opened in the Newhouse tunnel.—Idaho Springs Mining Gazette.

NEW COAL MINE

C. F. AND I. OPENS ANOTHER MINE NEAR TRINIDAD.

TRINIDAD, Colo.—The Colorado Fuel and Iron company has started work at the new mine which will be opened just the other side of Morley. The mine is located about ten miles from this city near the main line of the Santa Fe tracks.

Thirty men have been placed at work in the mine besides the large force of masons and carpenters who began the construction of houses.

Officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company state that this is one of the best mines that has been opened by them in a long while. The coal is of excellent quality and is clean and free from all rock.

The vein at the opening is about eight feet thick. It will be easily mined and the output of this mine will be exceedingly large. It is still unnamed.—Trinidad Chronicle-News.

RAISING MONEY FOR NEW MILL

MARIE ANTOINETTE PROPERTY NEAR OPHIR TO BE EQUIPPED—MAKING GOOD SHIPMENTS.

TELLURIDE, Colo.—A small force of men has been working steadily all the year on the Marie Antoinette, a few miles above the town of Ophir, with encouraging results. The vein recently encountered in the new tunnel shows a foot or more of $100 ore and an extensive sample taken across the vein last week returned a value of $101 to the ton.

The property was located by John E. Mulkey, Percy Davis and Dan. Martain twelve years ago, but passed to the control of the Marie Antoinette Mining and Milling company this spring. There are 12 claims in the heart of the Iron Springs mining district and also a 5-acre millsite with good water rights. Several veins cross the property, including about 800 feet of the famous Silver Tip vein.

William M. Grafflin, who is in the east in the interests of the company, reports that he will ultimately be successful in his efforts to obtain sufficient money from the sale of stock to build a mill which is all, it is stated, the property needs to become a dividend payer. The ore is of a free-milling gold and silver character and a rich streak of $1,000 ore appears almost continuous throughout the vein.—Daily Mining Record.

$1,000 GOLD ORE

RICH STRIKE MADE IN DOS CABOZAS RANGE, IN ARIZONA.

DOUGLAS, Ariz.—Four tons of ore in four days and that ore carrying $1,000 in free gold, is the record made by Edward Drew last week on his claims in the Dos Cabozas range, in Graham county. Drew is in partnership with the Hooker brothers, and they are in the Apache pass. For some time Drew made the richest strike in the history of the district, and a great excitement has resulted. He has an 18-inch vein of quartz which sparkles with free gold. The quartz occurs in large boulders, between which is a coarse gravel very rich in gold and easily panned. A rumor which adds interest in this district just now is that the Phelps-Dodge people are being interested in a group of claims on the west side of the mountain which contain deposits of iron. Of course, this is only a rumor, but the Durango-Clifton road will traverse this property and this gives color to the story. In the meantime several persons are working gold claims at fair profit in this section.—Daily Mining Record.

300,000,000 POUNDS OF COPPER FROM ARIZONA THIS YEAR

TOMBSTONE, Ariz.—With the production of first six months of the year on which to base calculations a number of estimates have been made of the approximate copper output of Arizona for this year. It appears from the information available that 300,000,000 pounds of copper will probably be produced, this estimate being obtained from monthly output reports of the various mines and districts as follows: Bisbee district, 12,500,000 pounds; United Verde, 8,000,000 pounds; Arizona Copper company, 3,000,000 pounds; Globe district ex......zazh ETAOIN SDLU CR district, exclusive of Mexican ore, 2,500,000 pounds; Detroit Copper company, 1,750,000 pounds; Shannon, 1,250,000 pounds; Silver Bell, 500,000 pounds; Arizona Smelting company, 400,000 pounds.

It is probable that some of these estimates are low, as the June output of the Old Dominion plant at Globe is over 2,000,000 pounds. The output of the Copper Queen for June was just about 8,000,000 pounds. The new 200-ton smelter at Helvetia which will be ready for blowing in soon will doubtless add to the grand total for the territory.—Daily Mining Record.

BONANZA STRIKE AT IDAHO SPRINGS

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo.—Moscript and Hassel have made an astonishing strike of bonanza ore in the Only Hope lode near the saw mill in Daily district. Mr. Moscript was exhibiting specimens of the ore and assay certificates that showed the values range from 1.04 ounces gold and 243 ounces silver to 9.04 ounces gold and 616 ounces silver per ton. The high grade streak is a foot wide and with it is a splendid body of mixed mineral that has good values. The lode is one that the men have held for some time. While preparing to patent it was found necessary to do more work upon the claim and for the purpose a new opening was made near the base of the mountain near the creek and wagon road. Here the ore was found. The location is ideal for economy of operation. The Only Hope is one of a large group of claims which have been in process of development and in which some huge bodies of galena ore have been opened. The strike surpasses any former discovery in the richness of the mineral and the quantity is surprising.—Idaho Springs Mining Gazette.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH.

From the London Chronicle.

In former times this year's profusion of elderflowers would have been welcomed not only by lovers of hedgerow beauty but by those who desired to preserve their own beauty and youth. According to the seventeenth century prescription the elderflower were to be gathered on midsummer day, powdered and put into borage water, which was to be drunk daily for a month, the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. This was a much-prized "elixir of youth." By common consent there has always been something supernatural about the elder tree. In Denmark it is protected by the "elder mother," without whose leave it is dangerous to pluck the flower. In Germany the hat should be taken off to it. And in England it has been variously considered the tree of the cross and the tree upon which Judas hanged himself, to be treated with reverence or fear accordingly.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE

How Women May Pass Through Change of Life

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration. Mrs. Mary L. Koehne 371 Garfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years in my family and it never disappoints, so when I felt that I was nearing the change of life I commenced treatment with it. I took in all about six bottles and it did me a great deal of good. It stopped my dizzy spells, pains in my back and the headaches with which I had suffered for months before taking the Compound. I feel that if it had not been for this great medicine for women that I should not have been alive to-day. It is splendid for women, old or young, and will surely cure all female disorders."

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

DEVELOPMENT OF TUNGSTEN CHIEF INDUSTRY OF BOULDER

BOULDER.—Tungsten mining has become one of the chief industries of Boulder county, Colorado. The range of prospecting for and the discovery of this important mineral is widening. A personal visit to the region about Nederland a few days ago developed the fact that prospectors were invading and digging upon some of the tracts long owned as summer resorts. Nederland has been rebuilt on better lines than before the fire, which destroyed the place two years ago. A new mill has been built just above the town, which is handling tungsten ores. All whom I met were quite elated over the prospects for largely augmented supplies of tungsten. They were sure it would be good for the country.

Work on the Golden Age, at Jamestown, is to be resumed. I often wonder what the new operators will find there. Many years ago the owners of that period uncovered a streak two to five inches wide that carried nearer pure gold than I have ever seen brought out of any mine in this country. There were slabs as long and wide as an ordinary blotting pad, which looked like pieces of bread on which butter had been thickly spread, and it was all fine gold. The miners who worked that marvelous streak made a good thing out of it in spite of all efforts to prevent them from stealing too large a share of what they broke. But in course of time the wonder became exhausted. The vein between walls is of good strength, and ought to pay under the better conditions of milling in the present epoch.

Colonel Teters, one of the Boulder veterans, has made a very gratifying strike in the Tennessee shaft at Sunshine. The streak is a foot wide and the ore runs from $94 to nearly $200 per ton.

The Colorado and Northwestern road has been of great benefit to the camps along its line, but it has not produced the big tonnage which the builders expected. Eldora, the terminus, is dull but hopeful. The Mogul tunnel, opened right in the town, is booming its way into a mountain that is said to be loaded with the rich mineral, but there is none coming out. It is now over 3,000 feet long and making for a vein 150 feet distant. A number of lodes have been crossed, but not one has been worked.—General Frank Hall in the Denver Post.

$100,000 ASSAYS ON THE MOHAWK MINE IN GOLDFIELD

GOLDFIELD, Nev.—Mohawk continues to hold the center of the stage among mines of the Goldfield district, one of the latest claims for attention being based on the discovery of an exceptionally rich streak of ore by Hayes and Monnette, lessees. It was encountered at a depth of 160 feet. The streak has a width of eight inches and is reported to assay as high as $100,000 in gold to the ton. It lies in a ledge varying in width from two to eight feet. The remainder of the ledge seems to be of good quality, some of the assays running high.

Since this block of the Mohawk was opened by Hayes and Monnette the extraction of ore has been continuous. The value of the ore going to market is said to be $12,000 a day.

Ore is being sacked at the Truett block on the same property by the Mohawk Leasing and Developing company lessee. A sampling of the ledge, which has a width of four feet, is stated to have shown a gold content as high as $4,500 to the ton. The yield of ore continues on the Kalfus block, while attractive conditions persist on the Oddie block. Curtis and ... [illegible] broke into a ledge that is of promising appearance.

The largest deal in mining property which has taken place in Goldfield for some months has been consummated in the purchase by Hayes and Monnette of the Goldfield Esmeralda Mining company property, consisting of the Clara, Dew Drop and Montezuma claims, for a consideration of approximately $106,000. The deal was made through R. L. Colburn and the principal selling party was G. S. Phenix.

The property is west of the Silver Pick grounds, being separated therefrom by the Lou Dillon claim, and has always been considered valuable acreage, but has been tied up by conflicting locations till just recently, consequently very little development work has been done. A shaft was sunk on the Clara claim by the former owners to a depth of ... [illegible] feet, from a level run out at the 80-foot point an assay of $800 was obtained from stringers.

Ever since Hayes and Monnette made their phenomenal find on Mohawk ground four months ago they have been studying the vein system in their neighborhood, and through the knowledge obtained at first hand in their own workings, and adjacent leased blocks, and a thorough examination of numerous properties, they picked out the Goldfield Esmeralda as offering the greatest possibility of yielding another bonanza ... and went quietly to work and secured it. When the cross of gold once falls on a mining man's shoulders there is no escaping the pleasant burden, and, since Hayes and Monnette made their first strike on the Mohawk fortune seems to shower favors on them from every side, and to show the faith their friends in Goldfield have in both their good judgment and luck, one hour after the deal for the Goldfield Esmeralda was closed their offering of stock was oversubscribed.—Daily Mining Record.

CITY OF MEXICO HAS RICH PLACER

LIES IN BED OF ANCIENT RIVER. LACK OF WATER PREVENTS DEVELOPMENT $5 SAMPLES.

CITY OF MEXICO.—It is not generally known that there is a large ... [illegible] in the valley of Mexico, ... a few miles from the city of Mexico. ... this place has ... with a view of ... [illegible] ... lack of water has always ... the scheme. Again the scheme is on the tapis.

These placer fields are in the dry bed of an ancient river and they cover a large extent of ground. Half a ton of river sand brought from these fields this month assayed in this city gave gold values of about $5 to the ton. This is a region where water abounds would make these placers a valuable property. However, their future depends on the discovery of some inexpensive means of bringing water to the mines.—Daily Mining Record.

GOLD STRIKE IN COBALT DISTRICT IS REPORTED.

MONTREAL, Que.—A big gold strike has been made on the property of the Montreal Cobalt that assays $1,500 to the ton. The ore is free milling, lies in a six-inch vein and if it continues at depth will cause more of a boom in the Cobalt camp than anything that has preceded it, the advice concludes.

THE END OF THE WORLD of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago Kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and Weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed by the Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

TO DRILL FOR OIL AT MONTROSE, COLO.

MONTROSE, Colo.—Three carloads of machinery have arrived for the first oil well of the Montrose & San Jose Oil and Gas company. This plant is one of the largest located in the state and the machinery will be placed on the property of the company one mile south of Montrose at once. The company has ample funds on hand to sink a well 3,000 feet, if necessary, in order to test the oil and gas supply of this section. The surface indications are similar to those of Beaumont, Tex., much oil rock being found on the surface.

The company has a franchise from the city for supplying it with natural gas if it is struck in the well.—Daily Mining Record.

TO BUILD 500-TON MILL AT KOKOMO

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Recently the directors of the Kimberley Consolidated mines located near Kokomo, Colo., voted to build a mill, and representatives have gone to the mine to select a site.

The ore was tested by the Wisconsin state mineralogical department and by the Michigan College of Mines at Houghton, and it was decided that it could best be treated by the flotation process, such as is used in the zinc and lead fields, magnetic separators being utilized to remove the different metals susceptible to this method of treatment.

The mill will have a capacity of 500 tons a day. The ore will average better than $12 a ton in mineral values, and there is sufficient ground blocked out to feed the mill for the next quarter of a century.—Daily Mining Record.

140 POUNDS OF LEADVILLE ORE IS WORTH $20,000

LEADVILLE, Colo.—A big strike has been made within the last twenty-four hours on the Little Johnny mine by Healey and Beebe, lessees on shaft No. ... They have taken out 140 pounds of gold bearing rock approximating 1,000 ounces of pure gold. The value in round numbers is about $20,000, one nugget alone weighing eighteen pounds. This mine has produced $18,000,000 in the last twelve years.

SEATTLE TO FRANCE.

The Pacific coast city of Seattle rejoices that it is to have a line of French steamships from that port to Europe, with sailings every two months, by way of the Strait of Magellan and the ports of South America. Seattle already had two steamship lines to Europe. The vessels of the China Mutual line give a through service to Liverpool, by way of the ports of Asia, and the Cosmos line gives a service to Hamburg by way of the ports of South America. Thus Seattle, with her two lines to South America, will enjoy exceptional facilities for the development of trade with the southern continent. Large shipments of flour are already going from Puget sound to South American ports.

CHINA IS GETTING AWAKE.

Natives of Flowery Kingdom Begin Campaign for Progress.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

... Chinese willing to ... for the building of ... The fabulous ... Hung Chang may soon be ... by others of his countrymen ... the sagacity to invest their ... in railway property. Captains of industry in silk robes and pig tails may soon be as numerous in the antipodes as they are in the home of the brave and the free.

In the meantime the enterprising "foreign devil" is abroad in the land and is getting contracts and concessions as fast as he can. A German firm has secured the contract for the new system of water works which will be built in the city of Canton.

The concession for the supply of water and the electric lighting plant in the city of Niuchwang has been secured by an Englishman and British capitalists will be offered the investments. It is said that negotiations are now going on for the electric lighting of the native city of Shanghai, and the contract for this, it is whispered, will be offered to a German firm.

However, the attitude of the Chinese government is not favorable to the development of the country's resources. There is little or no security for foreign capital, and even when the concessions are absolutely secured the composition of the boards of directors is not such as will command confidence. Yet the flotation of companies to work mineral deposits seems to have commenced in real earnest.

CAPTURE OF A HUGE SHARK.

Monster Thirty Feet Long and Weighs 14,000 Pounds.

From the Scientific American.

Sharks often attain a very large size along the Pacific coast, especially off the shores of southern California. Very recently a monster shark was captured by two Italian fishermen in San Pedro bay that is claimed to be the largest fish of that kind ever caught in the world. Beyond doubt it is certainly one of the largest ever captured anywhere.

When drawn out of the water and killed this sea monster weighed 14,000 pounds. It measured from tip to tip thirty-two feet and the circumference of the body just forward of the huge dorsal fin was fifteen feet. Across the fearful mouth horizontally when opened it was two and one-half feet, while from the tip of the snout to the point of the lower jaw it measured three and one-half feet. The size of the huge mouth may be judged by the fact that it is large enough for two children to be comfortably seated therein.

The shark became hopelessly enmeshed in some 1,500 feet of the fishermen's net. The net he speedily tore into strips, but in the giant creature's efforts to escape, the strings and ropes were wound many times around its gills and the shark was held a fast prisoner. Despite its long and frantic struggles for freedom the shark was finally stranded and filled with harpoons. The struggle lasted for more than an hour. The monster's stomach was found full of fish. It was engaged in robbing the net when it became entangled.

So far as here known the largest shark yet caught was twenty-two feet long—ten feet shorter than the San Pedro bay monster. In capturing the latter the two fishermen had many narrow escapes from being snapped by the creature. It made a long, savage and desperate struggle for its life. The shark was skinned and stuffed and has been placed on exhibition. Efforts, it is understood, are being made by the Smithsonian institution to secure this splendid specimen of the shark family.

WORLD'S DEEPEST SHAFTS.

Three of Them in the Copper Country of Michigan.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

The Michigan copper country possesses the world's three deepest vertical mining shafts. The deepest of these is No. 3 at the North Tamarack property, its measurements being 5,300 feet. To the south at a distance of 4,000 feet is the No. 5 shaft of the same company. This ranks as the second deepest vertical shaft on the globe, its measurements being 5,080 feet from the collar to the bottom level.

Second only to these great openings is the Red Jacket shaft of the Calumet & Hecla company, which is down 4,900 feet and in which the copper lode was not encountered until a depth of 3,300 feet had been attained. The deepest incline shaft in the world is the No. 4 of the Calumet & Hecla.

This shaft itself from the collar to the lowest level is sunk on the plane of the lode for a distance of 8,100 feet, while from a drift at the bottom a winze extends downward 100 feet to the boundary of the property, giving a measurement of 8,200 feet from surface. No. 4 shaft passes by the Red Jacket shaft at the fifty-sixth level.

QUILL TOOTHPICKS MADE IN FRANCE.

Quill toothpicks come from France. The largest factory in the world is near Paris, where there is an annual product of 20,000,000 quills. The factory was started to make quill pens, but when these went out of general use it was converted into a toothpick mill.

FLOWERS THAT KILL FLIES.

Sweet Peas Freshly Picked Effectually Destroy the Annoying Insects.

From the Springfield Journal.

A local druggist has found a new agent for the destruction of flies that for activity and effectiveness distances anything heretofore offered for that purpose. And not only is it harmless, but it is a thing of beauty as well. After setting ... thousands of sheets of ... paper of the sticky and poisoned varieties ... with little more of ... the new antidote ... bids fair to supersede all ... with him and ... friends who ... it.

[illegible]

... last day or so be regarded ... of defunct obnoxious insects ... gathering in the ... of the flowers, but curiosity ... to watch the conduct of the new flies ... in ... was observed when the ... were freshly picked that immediately after their being placed in the vase, those flies in the vicinity were lured to the petals and proceeded to fasten themselves there. Shortly afterward they fell from their positions dead.

It is presumed that the odor of the peas attracted them first, and that afterward they absorbed some poisonous exudation that the flowers possess and died in consequence. So far as known the peas possess no toxic effect upon the human being.

CLAIRVOYANT

ST. GEORGE ORMONDE
GENUINE CLAIRVOYANT,
300 Manitou Ave., over Postoffice, Manitou, Colo.

WONDERFUL PROPHECY.
Ormonde, in San Francisco last January, prophesied the horrible earthquake which took place there, fleeing himself and warning his friends to do the same. His office was at that time at 1017 Market St., which is now completely destroyed.

TELLS YOUR FULL NAME.
As a test in the reading, without asking a question, he will tell your name and the object of your call. Ormonde is not to be classed with partly developed mediums. His clairvoyant power is a natural birth gift.

PAST—PRESENT—FUTURE.
Clear as crystal. See Ormonde. Gives private instructions in the philosophy of the ancient Hindoo to those that are interested in occultism. He teaches the Hindoo methods of concentration, polarization, localization, which enables you to cause outward conditions to conform with your inward desires. Tells whom and when to marry, removes evil influence, restores affections, cures drunkenness, and helps where all others fail. Success guaranteed.

IF GOING TO SEE A MEDIUM,
Why not see the best, as the best is the cheapest in the world. There is no clairvoyant at all than one who is unable to help you, for false prophets do more harm than good. High-class patronage solicited, those capable of appreciating the powers of an intellectual psychic. I teach clairvoyance, hypnotism and personal magnetism and develop mediums. Mediums with difficult cases that they cannot handle consult me.

Guaranteed success when all others fail. My regular $5.00 readings, $1.00; no fee in advance; pay if satisfied. The only adept of Hindoo occult mysteries practicing in America at the present time.

Our entire force of skilled artisans of cooks and bakers in the delicatessen and bakery departments, is at your service at a very normal sum. In fact, your table may be entirely supplied with bread, cake, pastry, cooked meats and prepared delicacies at less expense than you could secure them through the medium of the ordinary cook.
